COLONEL LINDBERGH ARRIVES IN GAUTEMALA CITY

"Lindy" Arrives In Guatemala During Afternoon

Lone Eagle Takes To Air At Mexico City Early This Morning

Great Plans Being Made For Reception At Guatemala City

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed in the Spirit of St. Louis at Aurora field, Guatemala City, at 1:55 p. m., Eastern Standard time, the State Department was advised today in a cable from the American legation.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh began his good will tour through Central America today. He hopped off for Guatemala City at Valbuena airdrome at 6:35 a. m.

Col. Lindbergh passed over Puebla, 66 miles southeast of this city, at 7:15 o'clock.

General Jose Alvarez, chief of the presidential staff, represented President Calles. In the name of the president he said good-bye to both Col. Lindbergh and his mother.

Enjoyed Stay

"I have enjoyed every minute of my stay in Mexico," said Lindbergh. "I hope to come back to be with you for about three months."

Lindbergh climbed into the tiny cabin of his plane, waved his hand from the window and turned on the motor. As the propellor began to hum the crowd shouted: "viva Lindy" The plane rose in a smooth, graceful line. The silvery color blended with the morning mist.

Lindbergh spent no time in fancy evolutions, but headed south and in less than five minutes was lost to

Hundreds Search Lake Michigan For Missing Hunters

(International News Service)

GLENCOE, Ill., Dec. 28. — Two airplanes, a fleet of coast guard boats, police and 100 Boy Scouts were searching the ice-jammed coast of Lake Michigan today for two duck hunters who have been missing since early Monday morning.

They are Alexander Maitland, 25, and Robert Case, 14, both members of wealthy North Shore families. Maitland was a bridegroom of less than a year, having married Miss Marjorie Case, co-ed and prominent in the younger social set.

The young hunters left their home early Monday without breakfast, saying they would be back by 9 o'clock. It is believed they fell through thin ice or went down in a small boat far out in Lake Michigan.

Plan To Settle State Election In Pennsylvania

Senate Orders Seizure Of All Senatorial Ballots In 1925 Election For Recount

NEW HEARINGS FOR SMITH AND VARE

See Possibility Of Democratic Senator, First In History Of Keystone State

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The question of whether Pennsylvania shall have a Democratic senator for the first time in modern history came a step nearer the senate today when it was learned that some 1,500,000 votes cast in the Keystone state's senatorial election last year, will be seized within ten days.

The seizure, pending for months, will be a move toward the recount demanded by William B. Wilson, former Democratic cabinet member, in his contest for the senatorial toga won but not worn by William S. Vare, Republican senator-elect. If the senate find enough errors or throws out enough ballots to overcome Vare's plurality of 173,000, Wilson will win the seat.

The ballots will be brought here by the senate elections committee from 65 counties in Pennsylvania, where they were impounded by federal court order last September. The ballots from the two remaining counties—Allegheny and Philadelphia—were seized a year ago by the Reed slush fund committee.

Plan Hearings January 7.

Meanwhile the Reed committee will meet January 7 to give Vare and his ousted colleague, Senator-Elect Frank L. Smith (R) of Illinois, a new hearing on slush fund charges. This will be a preliminary to the final battle to deny them all title to the seats they apparently won last November.

For Vare however, it will be only a step in his uphill fight to get in the United States senate. Unlike Smith, who will have the opportunity to win a seat by winning another election, Vare will not be sure for many months

NATIONAL COMMANDER OF AMERICAN LEGION HERE ON JANUARY 26

All Western Pennsylvania Posts To Be Interested In Big Gathering Here

Plan For Immense Banquet At Scottish Rite Cathedral On Occasion

For the first time since the American Legion was organized in New Castle, the national commander of the organization will pay an official visit to this city according to an announcement coming from A. Edward Russell, commander of the Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343 of the Legion.

On January 26, 1928 National Commander Edward Spafford will be here and with him will come State Commander E .E. Hollenbach of Philadelphia, Pa.. Other national and state officers are expected also. In honor of the distinguished guests a banquet will be held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral dining hall and this banquet will be thrown open to the public, not only in Lawrence county but in Beaver, Butler and Mercer counties.

A Gala Occosion.

The banquet will be a gala occasion. Every Legion Post in the United States strives for the honor of entertaining the national commander, but only a very few ever achieve the distinction. After some several years of striving, Pittsburgh finally had an annual visit arranged for each national commander and to these annual visits the posts of the western end of the state are invited. Remus To Fight For Freedom On Jury's Verdict

Former Bootleg King To Try To Convince Judge And Alienists Of Sanity

BERGER RELEASED ON $1,000 BOND

Will Not Allow Remus To Defend Self In Insanity Hearing Set For Today

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 28.—George Remus, who killed his wife, Imogene, in a fit of jealousy, and then convinced a jury that "transitory insanity" was responsible for the deed, was to appear before Probate Judge William Lueders and three alienists here today in an attempt to convince them that he is now quite sane.

The former "King of the Bootleggers" will not, in this instance, be permitted to act as his own lawyer, as he did during the murder trial. After Judge Chester Shook had instructed the trial jury that they could not return a straight 'not guilty" verdict, the jurors did the next best thing for Remus by finding him "not guilty on sole grounds of insanity."

Thus, technically Remus is insane and will continue to be so regarded until his sanity is proven. And as an insane man, he cannot be permitted to act as his own attorney. Charles Elston his co-counsel during the trial, is expected to act in this capacity.

Berger Freed On Bond

Meanwhile John S. Berger, Los-Angeles rair promoter, who has become entangled in a maze of legal difficulties as a result of testimony which he gave for Remus, an old friend, during the murder trial, was free today under $1,000 bond.

Berger was indicted for perjury and last Friday presented a petition to Judge Shook asking that this indictment be dismissed. For presenting the petition, Judge Shook yesterday declared him in contempt of court and sentenced him to 10 days in jail. His release, under bond, was obtained by his attorney last night. The Remus jurors signed the petition and though all of them yesterday withdrew their signatures and apologized to the court, contempt proceedings are still pending against four, whom Judge Shook believes were chiefly responsible.

Fair Weather Is Aid To Salvagers On Submarine S-4

Divers Work Frantically To Complete Second Tunnel Under Sunken Craft

THIRD TUNNEL IS LIKELY NEEDED

(International News Service)

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 28. The third day of fair weather enabled the divers from the Falcon, of the S-4 rescue squadron, to continue their submarine salvaging work in Provincetown at about where they left off in the blow of last night.

Work was started early today and it is expected that the second tunnel, which is directly below the deck gun, will be completed before nightfall.

The tunnel is already excavated one-half of the way from the starboard side. There remains only 16 feet of mud and sand to clear away.

Navy officials are now of the opinion that a third tunnel will be unnecessary.

The chains will be placed in the space between the hull and the rudder and the stern and in the two tunnels that are now practically completed.

The water will then be pumped from the flooded compartments of the S-4. This operation will be one of the most delicate of the entire work.

Perfect weather for a continued space of time and calm waters will be required, for the divers will have to get inside the S-4.

A sudden blow last night caused the Falcon to shift her position and operations were suspended rather than risk the lives of the divers in the heavy swell of the waves.

Chicago Gangsters Slay Two More, In Beer War Flareup

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—The Chicago gangland beer war flared anew today and two men fell in a rain of rifle fire.

The victims were Charles Miller, alleged bootlegger, and John Davis, said to be a member of the gang which attacked Miller in an outlying roadhouse.

Miller fell to the floor mortally wounded with 14 slugs in his body. Davis fell but was dragged to an automobile by his companions. A few minutes later he was taken to a hospital by two men where he died shortly afterward.

Two men, John Tuhy and Roy Marschak, were sought by police for questioning.

The death of Miller occurred, according to police belief, when he attempted to establish himself as a small time bootlegger in territory controlled by one of the syndicates controlling the $75,000,000 vice, liquor and gambling interests in Chicago.

Put Little Hope In Message Said To Be From Dawn

Mrs. Grayson And Fliers Are Not Located By Any Of Searching Party

MYSTERY MESSAGE REPORTED RECEIVED

False Messages Seem To Be Part Of Every Plane's Disappearance

(International News Service)

ST. JOHN'S N. F. Dec. 28.—Hope for the rescue of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and the Dawn's crew of three men was aroused today by the possibility that a Newfoundland telegraph operator may have intercepted a radio message from the missing plane on Monday afternoon.

An operator named Hillyard reported to Assist. Supt. Stentaford of the Anglo-American cable station at Heart's Content, N. F., near Harbor Grace, that he heard the following message:

"Where are we? Can you locate us?"

Harbor Grace was to have been the first stop on Mrs. Grayson's attempted trans-Atlantic flight from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to London and Denmark, but her plane was not seen after passing over Cape Cod last Friday evening.

The message, according to Hillyard, was signed with a signal like WMU. Hillyard attached little importance to the incident and did not report it to Assistant Superintendent Stentaford until he learned that WMU was the Dawn's signal.

Little Hope

New York, Dec. 28.—Little hope that the message reported picked up Monday by an operator at Hearts Content, N. R., meant that the crew of the Grayson plane were still safe was held today by members of the "Grayson Rescue Committee" and fliers famaliar witht he territory about Newfoundland and Sable Island.

New York Plans For Celebration On New Year's Eve

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—In spite of the so-called drouth, New York is preparing for a New Year's eve of record-breaking gayety.

Virtually all the big restaurant, cabaret and hotel dining room accommodations have already been reserved. New York's pleasure seekers will be reinforced by thousands of out-of-town visitors who are coming to help usher in the new year.

Reservations Costly

Restaurant reservations averaged $10 per person, although some of the swagger places in the heart of the white light district charged as high as $50 for table space.

There will be special attractions in the cabarets and souvenirs will be given away by nearly all the restaurants. Jazz orchestras will be overworked, for cafe owners are preparing for "one of the dancingest crowds" in the history of the New Year's eve celebrations.

Some food undoubtedly will be consumed, and the harried bootleggers who have been kept on the jump night and day since before Christmas, are authority for the statement that the celebration will be a very wet one.

Lengel, gray-haired ex-police chief of Canton, O., who was convicted as a member of the "ring" which engineered the assassination of Don Mellett, Canton newspaper publisher, today was assured as the Ohio supreme court overruled an appeal by the state for reversal of the appellate court decree ordering the trial.

BUILDING ENORMOUS NEW KILN AT SHENANGO POTTERY

Work on the immense new kiln now under construction by the Shenango Pottery company at the plant here, is progressing, and according to a statement made at the plant today, it should be ready for operation sometime in the spring, perhaps by April 1.

The building housing the new kiln will be 140x325 feet in size and this building is nearly ready for the roof. It should be completed by January 15.

The kiln will be 264 feet long, an enormous piece of work, and because of the technical construction will be somewhat longer in completion than the building.

The work is being rushed with all possible speed and when completed will be a large addition to the present plant.

Uncle Rescues Girl Who Offered To Sell Herself In Marriage For $9,000

By MADELIN LEOF
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

FRACKVILLE, Pa., Dec. 28.—The curtain has rung down on the romance of Mary Luzuske, daughter of a Frackville miner.

The golden-haired, blue-eyed, 19-year-old shirt maker set everyone talking in her native town when she offered herself in marriage in an effort to save her father from debt.

But there will be no wedding. An uncle—attracted by the newspaper publicity resulting from Mary's offer—has taken care of the family indebtedness.

Will Wait For Love.

So Mary will wait until love—not debt—inspires marriage.

It all started like this: Mary was in despair. All her youth has been passed in the smoky mining town near Pottsville, Pa. She had been working in a shirt factory ever since she was 15. She had seven younger brothers and sisters whom she was helping to support. Her father, William Luzuske, a Lithuanian, had been a miner for many years, but his earnings were insufficient for the maintenance of his large family.

Mary was growing more and more worried. Her father owed $7,000 on the mortgage on their little house, besides $2,000 in other debts. How to get the sum of $9,000? They tried in various ways, but with no success.

Mary had an inspiration. Secretly she wrote to a New York newspaper and offered herself to any man who would pay the $9,000 that would save the family from ruin. Mary told her pathetic story in these words:

"My father is a miner and works hard, but does not get enough to feed and clothe his family. He owes for the house . . . for food . . . for each and every one. I want to know if you can help me, by that I mean put an ad in the paper and say that I will marry any man for $9,000 to save my parents from being thrown out of house and home. I am the oldest of eight children and will sacrifice myself to save them from ruin, so please help me out and put that ad in and God will help you some day."

Proposals Aplenty.

Then followed the girl's name and

KELLY'S PLANE SEEN OVER CITY

Lieut. Kelly Flies Over New Castle For Some Time Tuesday Afternoon

People of the city were interested Tuesday afternoon when a plane was seen circling over the city, at a rather low altitude. There was considerable conjecture as to what it might be.

It developed today that the plane was flown by Lieutenant Oakley Kelly, of Portland, Oregon, formerly of Grove City, who will be remembered as one of the two aviators, who made the first non-stop flight across the continent of North America.

Detailed by the army to come to Dayton, O., to secure a new plane, he hoped to arrive in this district to spend Christmas with his people at Grove City.

He, however, was detained and arrived a day late, coming over this city enroute to his home in Grove City, because of the fact that his sister, Mrs. Frederick V. Brown, resides on Sheridan avenue, this city.

Lieutenant Kelly will remain for a few days at his home in Grove City, after which he will start on his trip back to Portland, Oregon. He will pass over this city on his return trip and will also visit San Francisco on his way to Portland.

Johnston Feeding Game In County

Children Of Rural Schools Are Also Aiding Game Protector

COATING OF ICE THREATENS GAME

Frank N. Johnston, game protector for Lawrence county, is placing food for game in different parts of this territory so that the coating of ice which has covered the fields will not result in game extinction.

Squads of county school children are aiding in the feeding, it was learned today.

Probability is that members of the Wild Life League and Sportsmen's Association here will volunteer their aid to Johnston.

According to reports from various parts of the state, there is a thick coating of ice over the natural food supply of wild life, and unless food is placed where the small game exists and they can get it, hunting will be seriously curbed next season on account of wild life being exterminated by starvation.

Man Is Killed, Four Injured In Motor Accident

Headon Crash Of Automobile And Telephone Pole Results In Fatality

(International News Service)

PUNSUTAWNEY, Pa., Dec. 28. — One man was dead and four other men suffered from serious injuries in a hospital here today as a result of an automobile crash yesterday on the highway at Big Run, near here, when the men were enroute to Pittsburgh from Wilcox, Elk county. The machine in which the five were riding crashed head on into a telephone pole while avoiding another machine rounding a curve. The driver of the other auto said to have been on the wrong side of the road, failed to stop.

The dead man was William King, 25, of Johnsonburg. He succumbed in Punxsutawney hospital from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The injured were Elmer Nichols, 25, of Wilcox, five ribs fractured; Thomas Nichols, 31, Johnsonburg, right shoulder fractured; George Nichols, 28, Johnsonburg, lacerations of the scalp; and Charles Frank, 26, Wilcox, skull fractured.

The three Nichols were brothers-in-law of King. Thomas Nichols was driving the machine, which was badly smashed.

Hickman Resigned To Fate; Will Not Battle For Life

Lone Killer "Fox" Cringes In Cell As Preponderance Of Crime Overtakes Him

FAINTS IN CELL; QUICKLY REVIVED

"What Good Will Counsel Do?" Says Young Slayer; "Isn't Confession Enough?"

By ARTHUR L. MAREK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 28.—The lone killer, "Fox", caged and cringing at bay, will not fight back.

Locked inside the steel walls of his solitary cell in the Los Angeles county jail, William Edward Hickman says positively he will plead guilty to charges of kidnaping and murdering little Marion Parker.

His confession that he kidnaped the 12-year-old school girl, throttled her to death, butchered her and sold her mutilated body to her grief-stricken father for $1,500 stands, he says.

No Need For Counsel.

Hickman sees no need for counsel other than the services of the public defender and does not want the advice of Jerome Walsh Davis, a Kansas City attorney, who is speeding west to defend him at the instance of the prisoner's mother.

"Even if that lawyer tells me to plead not guilty, I will refuse to do it," Hickman declared.

"I said I'm going to plead guilty and I mean it. The officers may have my story all down in writing anyway—and I signed it. I told everything I know. I can't see where that Kansas City lawyer will be much help now."

Although Hickman has firmly decided that he will not fight the kidnaping and murder charges, followers of the case today pointed out that possibility that his counsel will seize the opportunity to use autopsy surgeon Wagner's declaration that the Parker girl died of fright and not primarily from stangulation as a basis for the slayer's defense.

Sleeps Soundly.

His keepers reported Hickman slept soundly through his first night in the Los Angeles county jail despite murmured threats of violence on the part of fellow prisoners who openly, and within earshot of Hickman, expressed their wrath because the ruthless killer had been harbored beneath the same roof.

Every precaution has been taken by Chief Jailer Frank Dewar to prevent a mutiny among the wrought up prisoners and special guards have been stationed at Hickman's cell to protect him from the fury of his jail mates.

Meanwhile, Jailer Dewar has issued explicit orders that Hickman will not be permitted to receive any visitors.

Neither will maudlin sentiment be permitted to seep through Hickman's

Child Abductor Is Hunted For In California

Recently Paroled Folsom Prisoner Steals Child Under Guise Of Charity

KIDNAPER SAID TO BE MARRIED MAN

(International News Service)

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 28.—State wide search for Robert E. McClelland, 27, recently paroled Folsom felon, on a charge of stealing 11-year old Evelyn Smith, Christmas day, has been ordered by Oakland police.

Perpetrating a ruse in the guise of charity, McClelland induced the mother and father of the girl to let her go with him, ostensibly to Pasadena, where he promised to provide her with good care in his mother's home. He said his mother was wealthy. A check for $125, given to Frank Smith, the bedridden father, for a month's advance salary as caretaker of the mother's estate proved to be worthless.

The fate of the little girl is unknown. Presumably she is with her abductor. In view of the Hickman-Parker case at Los Angeles, Oakland citizens are in a high pitch of excitement.

Sought Oldest

McClelland, who has been employed by an Oakland builder since his release from Folsom, October 18, this year, met the family the day before Christmas when he accompanied Seth Cushman, Piedmont Charity worker and a nephew of the builder, to the Smith home.

Christmas days he returned with his offer of charity. He attempted to get the oldest girl, Ethel, 14, to accompany him, but she refused so the second girl was selected.

The mother, frantic with grief, has sworn out a warrant charging McClelland with child stealing.

Police learned the paroled convict left his landlady's home Sunday with her automobile. He had borrowed the automobile only for a trip to San Jose Christmas, she told the police.

McClelland is reported to have a wife and two young sons in Pasadena. He was sentenced to Folsom for forgery from Tulare two years ago.

address. The New York paper published the letter.

Letters came pouring in. Mary was bewildered by the power of the press and by the sudden notoriety she was receiving. She had become a heroine, a person of discussion outside Frackville as well as on its streets.

Then an offer came as if from a fairy godfather. An uncle in Boston had read her letter in the paper. He had not known of the Pennsylvania family's distressing plight before. As soon as he learned of it, he wrote to them and offered them the $9,000 with no obligations on Mary's part.

Today Mary is happy in the Luuske home. The neighbors all came to congratulate her. Letters arrived from 43 more bidders but Mary burned them all.

Chicago Again Threatened By Movie Strike

Moving Picture Operators Seek Advance Of 25 Per Cent In Wages

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Moving picture owners and members of the operators' union in Chicago are again deadlocked over the question of an increase in pay for the operators after the first of the year, it became known here today.

Demand for a 25 per cent increase in wages was made upon the theatre owners last night, but was flatly rejected today, according to Ralph O'Hara, general organizer of the union. Another conference between the two factions is to be held tomorrow.

The present agreement expires January 11.

The salaries of motion picture operators now average from $67.50 to $135 a week.

year New Castle will get Commander Spafford before Pittsburgh and the local post of the Legion is put to the task of arranging what is expected to far outstrip any Legion gathering ever attempted.

Make Plans.

A meeting was held in the Legion Home Tuesday evening with Commander A. Edward Russell in charge. A large delegation of Legionairres from Beaver county was present headed by Deputy Michael Kane of Woodlawn, Pa. Beaver county is enthusiastic over the coming visit of Comamnder Spafford and will send a large delegation to the banquet.

Committees are now being appointed to arrange for the banquet for the reception of the national commander, for the sale of tickets, for music and entertainment and every angle of the big party. Because of the unusual demand which is expected to result for tickets the committee will allocate tickets to various posts in this section. One feature of the banquet will be the presence of woman. Heretofore the affairs have been restricted to Legionairres and men outside of the organization. This year the wives of Legionairres and guests will be invited to attend.

For the present the number of people to be present has been set at 1,000. This may be increased however when once the tickets start going. It is an occasion of more than ordinary interest to New Castle and Lawrence county and it is hoped to make Commander Spafford's visit here one that will be remembered.

cell to create misplaced sympathy for the killer, Dewar is determined.

Mail Is Censored.

Letters, mostly from women offering to pray for Hickman, already have begun to pour into Dewar's office.

But all mail addressed to Hickman will be rigidly censored before it reaches his hands, his jailers say.

Hickman slept like a top throughout the night, the guards outside the cell reported early this morning.

Not once during the long hours did they fail to hear the heavy breathing of his deep sleep.

Neither was the almost death-like slumber of the prisoner fatigued and near exhaustion from the ordeal of his first day in jail, broken by the frightened outcries of fitful dreams.

His jailers attributed Hickman's lethargy to his physical exhaustion which yesterday brought about his collapse.

He had flung himself across his cell bunk, buried his head in his arms and fell into a heavy sleep.

An hour later a deputy sheriff shook him.

Falls In Faint.

Frightened, Hickman leaped from his bunk and toppled to the floor in a dead faint.

His guards dashed cold water into his face and with the aid of restoratives brought him back to consciousness.

Dr. Black, jail physician, who was summoned to administer medical aid, declared Hickman's collapse was no sham.

Meanwhile, a twenty-four hour watch is being kept over the notorious prisoner.

Every eight hours a new guard stations himself just two feet away from Hickman's cell, Number One in Tank 10-B2.

It is in this steel-caged tank, atop the ten story hall of justice, that Los Angeles authorities lodge their desperate prisoners for safe keeping.

"Dead Line" Drawn.

The tank is variously referred to as "the jewelry tank" and the "hard boiled tank."

A red warning, "dead line", painted across one wall of Hickman's cell, marks a dangerous barrier between the kidnaper-killer and his two neighbors in the adjoining cell, Number 2.

A highway robber and an automobile thief are Hickman's uncommunicative neighbors.

Credit Bureau Manager Gives Some Advice

What a judgment on the court house records means was vividly described this morning by Ray F. Hall, manager of the New Castle Credit Exchange.

"A judgment," declares Mr. Hall, "is a scintillating history indelibly inscribed for future years. And mostly it is a history of abused faith and broken promises.

"These judgments cannot be wiped out except by payment. Some day, when the debtor wants to sell a piece of property, or when his widow wants to sell property that the debtor left her, then that judgment must be satisfied with court costs and interest.

"Listen: If unfortunately at some time in your life, you failed to pay a just debt and a creditor took a judgment against you and that judgment still stands between you and your good name, do not let it stand a day longer.

"You owe it to your creditor, of course," Mr. Hall concluded, "but think how much more you owe it to yourself and your loved ones!"

An Appreciation

The manner in which our city is decorated for the holiday season has been an inspiration to, and the admiration of, both our own people and the stranger within our gates.

Never before has the city been so beautiful and never before has there been such an outward expression of our inward feeling, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" as has characterized this Christmas.

The spontaneous response of our people to the suggestion of the central committee, and the full measure of co-operation extended by all, presages the awakening of a greater civic consciousness which in years to come will mean much good for all of us.

May we express our personal appreciation and thanks to all who have made this possible.

Sincerely,
DAVID S. PYLE, President,
New Castle Chamber of Commerce.

PLAN TO SETTLE STATE ELECTION IN PENNSYLVANIA

whether he can get into the senate. This will be due to the Wilson contest.

If denied his present seat, Vare of course, can run for re-election to the vacancy thus created but he can't be sure there is a vacancy until the Wilson contest is decided. If the senate ultimately declares Wilson legally elected,—the Democrat would be seated, even though Vare had won an election to fill the vacancy in the meantime. The seating of Wilson would expel Vare automatically and give the Democrat a six year term from last March 4.

A recount of all the ballots cast in the Pennsylvania election last year was demanded by Vare after Wilson had charged fraud and corruption in Allegheny, Philadelphia, Delaware, Lackawanna, Luzerne and Schuylkill counties. Wilson also charged "similar fraudulent and corrupt conditions" existed in every other county of the state, where the Republican machine was in control. Vare denied all the specific charges, the general charge and a declared a recount would only increase his official plurality of 173,000 votes. The counter-charges virtually will force the elections committee to hold a recount, a task that may not be completed for a year or two.

Senator Shortridge (R) of Cal., chairman, however announced his committee would not undertake a recount unless it were "absolutely necessary" to determine who won the election. He added that the impounded ballots would be brought here merely to have them handy if a recount is ordered.

view above the rim of the southern hills.

The distance to Guatemala City, according to the route Col. Lindbergh mapped out for himself, is about 800 miles. Lindbergh said he hoped to reach his destination by four o'clock this afternoon, and perhaps sooner.

Government officials bade Col. Lindbergh fareweli and wished him a swift, safe journey.

State Wins Victory In Legal Skirmish At Trial Of Hill

State's Attorney Blocks Attempt To Have Indictment Quashed

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, Ill., Dec. 28.—With a victory following the opening skirmish in the trial here of Harry A. Hill for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, wealthy Streator, Ill., recluse, State's Attorney Russell O. Hanson today prepared to stage another battle with four defense counsel.

Hanson late yesterday won against a defense motion to change a plea of not guilty to a move to quash the indictment. Attorneys for Hill maintained his plea had been irregular. When Judge Joseph A. Davis ruled in favor of Hanson following a long argument, defense counsel then demanded to know of Prosecutor Hanson upon which of five counts of the murder indictment Hill was to be tried. One count charges Hill shot his mother. Another claims she was killed in an unknown manner. The other three are variations of the first two. Hanson was to make known his intentions at the opening of court today.

Twenty-seven of the 100 prospective jurors were excused. The remainder were expected to be questioned this afternoon.

word that might lead to a clue as to what happened to the ill-fated plane since it took off from Roosevelt Field last Friday, fliers and friends of the crew pointed out that false reports seemed part of every such mishap.

They recalled the flight of the French aviators, Nungesser and Coli last May, and the numerous messages, supposedly from the plane, reporting that the aviators were down on the "coast of Maine."

The consensus of opinion appeared to be:

"Possible, but not probable."

ABOARD U. S. S. STURTEVANT OFF SABLE ISLAND, Dec. 28.—Following receipt of radio reports that a message, ostensibly from the "Dawn", Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's lost plane, had been picked up at Heart's Content, near Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, yesterday, the five destroyers that are searching for the plane circled around Sable Island today.

The Sturtevant and Mahan 16 miles apart, were covering the southwest quadrant of a circle around the island, while the Shaw and Mohegan and Downes were searching the southeast quadrant. Three lookouts were on duty on each ship.

The sky was overcast and the sea smooth.

A NEGLECTED RESOLUTION

WE HAVE no wish to preach, and are well aware good resolutions constitute a tender subject—seeing how nearly all of them are broken within the first few weeks of each new year. Nevertheless, we venture a wisp of advice to those who are about to greet the first day of 1928 without definitely deciding what they are or are not going to do.

This suggestion of ours is not new, but because it is not much used, may be called as good as new. It does not require any special preparation, such as throwing away ash-trays or smashing cocktail glasses. It does not even involve suffocation of a habit, harmful or extravagant, and can be quietly applied without attracting special notice from any one—until it gets in good working order.

Then it may become a matter for comment, but only of the most praiseful sort. In the Dictionary of Desirable Traits it is defined as tending to your own business. And it comes in assorted sizes, to fit even those who have little business to attend to.

"JUNKING THE JURY SYSTEM"

IT'S TIME to junk the American jury system, so The Cleveland News declares in an editorial discussion of the recent grotesque verdict rendered by a jury in Cincinnati. The editorial is filled with the most gloomy pessimism.

The fallibility of the jury system has been made plain many times in the history of American courts. Human judgment on issues taken to the jury for a just verdict has been faulty on many occasions, but it hardly is time to junk the jury system instanter cautions the Ohio State Journal. It might be well for the best legal and lay minds to be given to the task of fashioning some better method before the jury system is utterly repudiated. There is a percentage of error and failure running through humanity, always apparent in repeated tests of an individual or a group. It is folly to refuse to admit that fact, it is folly to expect the best results on all occasions. Human weakness is one of our inheritances and it will persist.

But it is true and may be admitted frankly that there have been many just complaints about the results from American jurors and from individuals on whose judgments important questions have depended. The laws we have are good or bad as writers have made them, their administration is good or bad as human judgment has been tested. Not all the checks and balances provided have availed to prevent these errors. Nor will there be an errorless method devised that must depend at some point on fallible human nature.

The verdict in Cincinnati was a travesty on justice, a gross miscarriage. The trial did not represent the best possible administration of our laws. But the world has been facing breakdowns and occasionaly failure through all history, because mankind has not developed to a point of ability insuring the best results. The jury system may not be the best, but it is the rule of the land. We may need a new rule and to that the constructive judgment of leaders might well be given.

AMERICAN SECURITIES BEST

SOME American investors have been attracted from domestic railroad stocks to foreign bonds because the latter have offered almost double the rate of interest being earned by the railroads as a whole. Are these foreign investments as safe? Many doubt it. Are they equally important for the future of the United States? Undoubtedly not.

Are the repair of docks in Norway, the installation of hydro-electric power in Italy, the deepening of a canal in Belgium, the opening of a mine in France, the rejuvenation of a textile mill in Poland and the merging of steel mills in Germany—just to mention a few kinds of foreign loans—more important than the building of terminals for the handling of perishable agricultural products in our large cities? The investing public must judge between betterments at home and betterments abroad, and consider the safety of its money as well.

There has been much discussion this year of the respective advantages of investments in stocks and bonds. Many hope to soon hear seriously discussed the advantages of American stocks over European bonds. There can be only one answer for the American investor who has been reading foreign news—American preferred, even in common stocks.

CROSS-PURPOSES

Oh, what a wonder-world 'twould be,
If truckmen always were polite
And green were all the lights for me
When I am driving home at night.

Oh, world that holds the human race,
How very restful you'd become
If every servant knew his place
And every foolish tongue were dumb.

If all the bad were good and wise
And all the brutes were gentlemen,
And no one ever told us lies
Life would be very simple then.

But by cross currents I am swirled
And torn by doubts from day to day,
I find it is a cruel world
Because I cannot have my way.

The red light stops me on the street,
I hear an angry truckman swear
And every other man I meet
Seems bent upon his selfish care.

Since in this tangle of affairs
I can't escape my fellow men,
I heed the red light when it glares
And try to do the best I can.

Tumultous is man's stretch of years,
A clash of interests, I admit,
And since so plainly this appears,
Let's live and make the best of it.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:39. Sun rises tomorrow 7:23.

One thing about Christmas cards is that we learn the middle names of some people we never have even suspected of having middle names before.

A reader of this column asks us why the amusement places in New Castle do not state in their advertisements whether their shows are continuous or not and if not what time the shows start. We think that a fair question.

One of the very nice looking and attractive outdoor Christmas trees in this vicinity is that on the spacious lawn of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Urmson, a short distance off the hard road on the road to New Wilmington. This tree is growing on the Urmson place and is getting larger every year. It has been decorated for quite a few years now and is the delight of the neighborhood. We drove out there last night just to see it and it was very much all right.

Baldness does not come upon man in a day. Kind nature gives him time to become reconciled as hair drops out like the gently falling leaves of autumn.

You may talk as you please and we have said things about this chap because we do not agree with all his methods, but Billy Sunday has a message for humanity that no other man in the world has to give. We know there are some wice crackers who will dispute this and we are not setting ourselves up as a judge either, but any one who hears Sunday and does not get a thrill isn't human or sober.

We notice that the city council is making up the budgets for the expences for next year or perhaps it's all settled by now. However, we cannot understand why enongh money is not set aside to pave Sampson street from the end of the pavement to the city garbage plant. It has cost of the city many times the cost of paving this bit of street in repairs to garbage trucks we are sure. This street is also traveled much. St. Mary's cemetery is just a little distance beyond and most every day a funeral goes there to say nothing of the hundreds of taxpayers who visit that cemetery every few days who have to drive over this terrible piece of road.

It would be interesting to see how some chaps would reduce taxes in New Castle as they say they would if elected to an office. Next year New Castle will go along with very little money and not much chance of much improvement and the millage will be raised. It would be interesting to see how taxes really could be reduced—or in fact kept from being raised. Personally we think the taxes entirely too low in New Castle because we do not have the money to do the things that should be done.

In Germany when a submarine sinks they never lose a man. They have the subs equipped with equipment that will take care of any accident to the ship and save the men. It might be a good idea for us to find out how they do it.

Judging from their conversation an idea must feel lonesome in some people's heads.

Even in the cities in Mexico where the bandits and brigands are in the majority they hung out American flags when the Colonel flew over them. Some of the Mexicans thought it would not be safe for the Colonel to fly over such places and he was advised to detour or go so high they could not plink his bus with their hand cannons. We are glad the bandits respectel Col. Lindbergh.

Back 40 or 50 years ago when we were kids there was no such thing as a family going hungry in New Castle. Every family raised enough potatoes, cabbage, rutabagas, turnips and in most all cases a couple of porkers and this kept people during the winter. Of course there was not much pound cake or pie, but there was no such a thing as a scarcity of things to eat. There may have been a shortage of clothes but we all got along fairly well. Looking out for the winter is a good thing and there is enough vacant land in the city limits of New Castle to raise enough stuff to feed all the people who need help in the winter time But getting them to do it, that's the rub.

More than one girl who gets married begins housekeeping with all sorts of notions as to how she is going to improve on her mother's way of doing things. But the results?

New York cabarets close at 3 a. m., but there are holdup men to care for those who still wish to be robbed.

London chemists say that beauty is not even skin deep—it's all on the surface. This is indeed terrible as we thought there was something more to beauty than a shadow.

There are only a few days left of the old year 1927. It hardly seems possible that the old year is so near gone. We wrote a check the other day and dated it 1926 and no one noticed it until we got it back and then we did.

We should get a lot peace out of the late war. We got little of everything else.

In New York all the taxicabs have signs painted on them telling that one can ride in them for the first quarter of a mile for 15 cents and then it's five cents for each additional quarter mile. The traffic jams in New York are something fierce and there are times when one gets in a taxicab when it does not turn a wheel until the register runs up to 40 or 50 cents and you are still standing about where you got into the cab and this in spite of the fact that it says you can ride so far for 15 cents. If you want any explanation of this just try to tell it to the driver of such a cab. The fare register runs while the cab stands still.

The ideal marriage is when a man after ten years of matrimony can still give thanks for his wife. Then it's true love.

When the days grow longer the cold grows stronger. We are about at that time of the year now.

Today's Storyette.

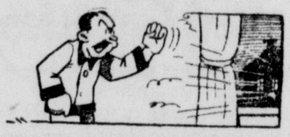
A country police officer passed a cow and a calf grazing on the roadside. In the distance he saw a little boy coming along. The officer stopped him and said:

"Tell me, my boy, do you know who owns that cow and calf?"

"No sir" said the little boy, "I don't know who owns the cow, but I know who owns the calf."

"Who?" said the officer.

"I should say the cow, sir" was the reply.



You may love the sinner while hating sin, but it's hard to love your neighbor while hating his radio.

It is terrible to think of those 40 men imprisoned in the sunken submarine off Provincetown, Mass. The sympathy of the entire nation is awakened. We cannot help but think how much better things would be if William Hickman, George Remus, Loeb and Leopold and a few of that type were in the submarine.

If you want to see some pretty Christmas decorations go out Winter avenue between Highland and Delaware. Other streets are beautiful too, but this one street is unusually attractive. Almost every house on both sides of the street show the Christmas cheer.

We have read of a wife who refused alimony on the grounds that a real American girl will not accept support from a man not good enough to live with. Isn't that fine, but we haven't heard of the line forming on the right.

It is better to go ahead and do than to complain because it is not done.

No great man ever coveted the glory of greatness. He aimed simply at service and justice.

It is alleged by observers to claim to know that girls go hungry in order to buy clothes though no one would have suspected it because of visible evidence.

Most of the accidents are reported as happening in the home. It isn't any wonder that the young people prefer to be somewhere else.

Love.

Love is trusting, love is waiting,
Love is hope, delight, despair,
Love is madness, love is hating,
Love is carelessness and care!
Love is wone and love is honey,
Love is pain and love is joy,
Love is everything—but money—
Just keep that in mind my boy!

Looks like Mrs. Frances W. Grayson the woman aviator is lost, together with three men, her crew of "The Dawn." For being foolhardy without proper respect for the elements and those other attributes that make sane and careful flyers, Mrs. Grayson takes the lemon. In several attempted flights a few months ago Mrs. Grayson blamed her pilot and finally discharged him. At least he seemed to know the possibilities of that plane and was fearful of taking too many chances. It is said that a woman's stubbornness should end so disastrously.

Percival came running to his grandma one day asking for a drink of water

Take Care of Lindbergh.

A Brain Pantheon.

Cosima's Brown Hair.

Mind, Matter, Glassy Eyes.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. American, Inc.

Col. Lindbergh will soon fly over mountain peaks in Guatemala, starting long flights in his one-engine plane, over tropical regions in Central America. In spite of his great skill and courage he RUNS GREAT RISK.

Linbergh's life is too valuable to be staked repeatedly on what, at best, is dangerous flying.

It was unnecessary to risk a non-stop flight from Washington, D. C., to Mexico City. A flight with rest and refueling would have answered the purpose.

Everybody knows what Lindbergh can do. It is not necessary for him to incur repeatedly risks as great as when he flew the Atlantic.

And Lindbergh should fly a machine with three motors instead of one. His personal safety is more important than promoting any particular engine or the financial interests of any group.

There should be some way of emphazing that.

The old-fashioned "Pantheon," meaning "all the gods," contained mouldering bones of great men with their clothes on.

Russia's new "Pantheon of Intelligence" will contain only the brains of eminent men, kept in glass bowls for study, with gold plates telling who owned the brains, what it did.

Prof. Bakhterev, Russian psychologist, now dead, established the pantheon and left his brain to it. Chaliapin, Russian singer, has willed his brain to the institution.

Future ages will study today's primitive brains with interest, and perhaps read the meaning of their convolutions. Our best microscopes cannot tell us why Bakhterev's brain studied psychology, why Challapin sings, Lindbergh flies and Coolidge "doesn't choose."

Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of the great musician, daughter of Liszt, celebrates her ninetieth birthday with friends and memories. When Richard Wagner died Frau Cosima cut off her beautiful brown hair, falling below her waist, and put it under the pillow in her husband's coffin. Before "the bob," that meant sacrifice.

Later were published letters of the temperamental Richard written to other ladies.

For a while, perhaps, Frau Cosima regretted the long brown hair. But that is long forgotten. At 90, as Luigi Cornaro said, you know that the world is beautiful, and little things make little difference.

The human mind, strange machine, cannot control itself.

Hickman, the vile young criminal, who kidnaped and murdered a poor child, seeking sympathy by pretending hysteria, sat in his cell "with glassy eyes seeing nothing." An experienced sheriff said: "I'll find out about that hysteria."

He put two drunken Indians in the cell next to Hickman and the Indians began fighting savagely. Hickman immediately came out of his hysteria, his eyes, no longer glassy, followed the fighting Indians with interest and fear.

Control of mind over matter is well established, but mind itself has little control over itself.

Not quite four days left of 1927. Make your New Years resolutions early, start them today. Those that know what they should do and don't begin NOW will not begin seriously four days hence.

In a long jump or race, a running start is a great advantage. Young gentlemen with only four days in which to get started for 1928 would do well to start NOW.

Charles W. Gray, well-known citizen of Chicago, who worked his way to success and prosperity, encouraged by John Hertz, is killed by a fall from his horse at 52. He wore a soft cap, or hat, presumably. Had he worn a hat of heavy felt, providing an air cushion between the skull and the ground, he would probably be alive.

No man is safe from a fall when riding, especially after middle age. And all should wear "hard" riding hats, women included.

John J. Esch of Wisconsin, who has been nominated by President Coolidge for another term as Interstate Commerce Commissioner, is regarded as one of the ablest members of that body. Previous to his first appointment to the commission by President Harding in 1921, Mr. Esch had had the benefit of a long career in Congress. For twenty-two years he sat in the House as representative of the Seventh Wisconsin district, serving most of that time on the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. He was ranking minority of the committee while the Democrats were in power and became its chairman in 1898. Mr. Esch was born in Wisconsin and after graduating from the State university at Madison he entered upon the practice of law in La Crosse. His congressional career began in 1899.

THE RIGHT TO RESPONSIBILITY

I came across a phrase the other day that intrigued me. It was "The right to responsibility."

This is one of the most necessary and invaluable rights of a human being. It is the one of which many youth are deprived by mistaken mothers.

The mother is likely to want to save her offspring from any trouble. So she picks up after the girl who makes a mess with her play things on the floor and she steps in to intervene between her son and the consequences of his wrong deeds.

Consequences of an unpleasant nature are the means nature uses in teaching people. Everybody needs to know that doing a wrong act brings punishments. If he does not learn this he misses a great deal and is laying up trouble for himself in the future.

The way a child learns to take care of himself is to have his fingers burned on the hot stove and to stub his toes and bump his nose. If somebody else steps in and takes the burned fingers and nose bump in his stead he is deprived of a very useful lesson and something he ought to know.

Every one has a right to responsibility.

Responsibility is not only a burden to be borne, it is a lesson to be learned. It is a great mistake to step in between a person and the legitimate consequences of his own misdeeds.

It is hard for a father to let his son get into difficulty because of his pranks and to see him compelled to pay for his evil deeds but it is much better for the father to restrain himself and hold back his generous impulses and let his son suffer in order that the son may learn that it doesn't pay to do wrong.

This world is very nicely adjusted in its scheme of couse and effect and sooner or later the wrong doer gets what is coming to him. He ought to get it. That bitter experience is the thing that enables him to learn. A boy learns more from the rough blows he receives on the play ground than he does from the kind words he receives from the teacher.

Capital punishment or corporal punishment may be an undue extreme and if used at all ought to be used with great discretion, but short of those extreme measures one ought to be allowed to suffer for his own evils.

Bible Thought For Today

THE ETERNAL WORD:—For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. Thy faithfulness is unto all generations: thou hast established the earth, and it abideth. Psalm 119:89, 90.

ABOUT WALKING.

While Bacon said something about what Reading, Writing and Speaking made of the mind of Man, the modern Athletic Instructor has a thing or two to say about the Kind of a physical Man which Swimming, Horseback, Riding and Walking will make. Swimming exercises the greatest number of man's muscles. Horseback Riding comes second and Walking a good third.

Walking is, however, the oldest form of recreation as well as of locomotion. Upon second thought we recognize it as such, but probably we do not customarily so identify it when speaking casually of man's recreations, because like our legs walking is very much a part of us and what is so distinctly under our nose we frequently fail to see.

As a matter of fact the pleasure of walking has been of late a much neglected subject in literature, and the art of walking is woefully unknown today despite our constant recourse to it. Many a year has passed since old dancing masters taught young beaux and belles the art of walking easily and gracefully before teaching them the first steps of the waltz and lancers.

To the thoughtful walking is the most optimistic as well as invigorating of tonics. Thus Dean Swift, with whom that recreation was such a necessity that he affirmed he could not exist without it, walked to make himself lean, he said in describing his long walks with Prior. His fellow-poet walked to try and make himself fat!

The Remus Burlesque

The more one thinks about the verdict in the Remus case the more one is affronted by the fantastic absurdity of it. Consider the facts. Remus had already served a term in prison. He was a shady fellow, a man on whom society should have looked askance even before this crime took place. He went out one morning and shot his wife dead. The manner in which he went about his work, the stratagem he employed to trap her, the fact that he was armed, that he had carefully timed his appearance, all indicated that he committed this act with the utmost deliberation.

Next he goes on trial for his life. He pleads insanity, maniacal insanity, in the fact of the undisputed deliberation with which he had done the murder. He conducts his case himself, as though an insane man could understand the intricacies of law through which his pleading would lead him. He sets out to prove insanity by calling up witnesses to describe the circumstances which were supposed to have led up to the crime. This involves besmirching the name of his victim, accusing her of acts which she may or may not have committed. And this shady fellow, this former convict, this blackguard who did not hesitate to defame the woman he had killed, now has the effrontery to declare that he was driven insane by considerations that could have had meaning only to a man of honor.

The judge, during the presentation of this preposterous case, listened solemnly and made no move to keep it out of the record. And when it was all finished the jury found the defendant not guilty on the ground that he had logically convinced them that he was insane. And now that he has been acquitted because he is insane, he is held until a court can determine whether he is insane.

Of course this is so idiotic that even those who were a party to it must have some way of squaring it with reason. So the argument is that while Remus was insane at the time of the crime, he is sane now. But the proposition that a lunatic by sitting 75 days in a detention cell can become sane enough to conduct a difficult case at law will not impress many of us. Such a travesty on rational procedure is a disgrace to the state of Ohio, to the court that listened to it and to the jury that pretended to take it seriously. Why was Remus acquitted? Why was every newspaper correspondent at the trial, weeks before the end, able to advise his paper confidentially that Remus would be acquitted. When we have the answer to these questions we shall probably know how sinister a chapter in American criminal history was here written.—New York World.

HOW SLEEP THE WISE?

How Do You Sleep?

Somebody brought up this important question at a little gathering at which I was present, a day or so ago. In what position should one sleep?

The discussion went around, and it developed that not one of these fairly intelligent persons had ever formed any opinions about the most satisfactory position for the human body in sleep. Nobody remembered having read anything about it, and all of these were reading folk.

Should one form the habit of sleeping on the back? Left side, right side, front, or three-quarters view? There was diversity of opinion expressed, but all admitted that they had had difficulty all their lives settling upon a satisfactory and comfortable sleeping attitude.

Bad Dreams

A good many people have bad dreams when they sleep lying on their backs. Lying on the left side interferes with the heart action of some persons. Lying on either side brings out the question of what to do with the arm on that side, since one can't very well lie upon it.

A compromise is a position partly upon the right side and partly upon the frontal half of the body. But this involves a twisting of the neck. The more you roll toward the front, the more you twist the neck. Did you ever notice that?

Many persons believe that twisting the neck isn't a wholesome procedure. Especially if you keep the neck twisted into the same twist all night.

When "Hands Go to Sleep"

Doubling up the arms and sticking the fists under one's pillow or under one's chin leads to trouble with the hands "going to sleep" unless your circulation is vigorous.

Sleeping with the arms above the head is obviously hard on the heart, since it imposes a weight-lifting task upon that organ that Atlas himself might well shun.

How sleep the wise, who have figured all these matters out in detail? I'd like to know. And why doesn't somebody write a book about it? Somebody writes a book about everything else. If any of my readers have workable theories on this subject I'd be happy to read them and pass them on.

Believes Prosperity Emphasized Through Utilities Expansion

H. Hobart Porter, President Of American Waterworks, Issues Review

Predicts Operating Utilities Will Show Increases In 1928

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Growth and expansion of the American public utility companies have contributed in large measure to the prosperity of this country in the last two or three decades. Important service to the public and conservative channels of new investments have been furnished, and community welfare promoted through the expanding activities of the lighting, transporting and power companies, many of which were unknown twenty-five years ago.

H. Hobart Porter, the president of the American Water Works and Electric Company, told International News Service today that the large program of expansion carried on by American utilities during the past five years has placed most of the operating companies in a position to adequately care for the anticipated 1928 business, with possibly one-half the average expenditures of the past few years for extension and betterments.

Business At Lower Rate.

Porter finds that business activity in 1927 was at a lower rate than in the preceding year, particularly in the last few months of the year. The utility leaders' forecasts indicate that operating utilities will show increases during 1928, but probably at not so high a rate as has been experienced in the past few years; not exactly a falling off, but merely a lessened rate of growth compared with 1925 and 1926.

"The noticeable ease in money rates during the last 18 months has been of great advantage to the industry in providing lower cost long-time money to finance necessary expansion programs" said the head of the American Water Works Company. He also looks for a continuation of these conditions, facilitating a further expansion of the industry.

When final results of the electricity-supply and gas lighting business in the Chicago and Lake Michigan district are compiled, shortly after January first, they will show that public utility business in 1927 has been good, but not booming, according to B. B. Mullaney, the vice-president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company, of Chicago. Mullaney also deducts, from the volume of new equipment installation and plant changes, that the public utility heads are expecting a larger volume of business in 1928.

Demand Is Good.

"The demand in 1927 for connections and installations," said Mullaney today, "broke all previous records. More new industrial gas burning equipment was installed in Chicago shops and factories last year than ever before. The additional connected load, the increased potential use, thus provided for was larger than in any other year. It amounted to practically 18 per cent of the gas used for industrial purposes in 1926.

"In the electrical business of this area, the increases in connected loads have been similarly insignificant, if not quite so marked. The electricity supply companies have had extraordinary increases in other recent years, and every year can scarcely be a record breaker."

Mullaney reports that the 1928 budget for expansion and distribution facilities in both electricity and gas in the area around the head of Lake Michigan will be about the same as in 1927. Many companies are still in the process of catching up with potential opportunities that came with such a rush after the world war, and time will be required for their fuller development.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

walking," he would add, and that was why he disliked them. He always cried shame at them,—"as if their legs were of no use but to be laid aside."

Sir George Trevelyan writes that the friends of Charles James Fox in later life could not please him better than by disputing whether this or that village was nine or eleven miles from St. Anne's Hill, in order to give him the opportunity of settling the discussion by a walk, for as Dyer tells us "Fox prided himself on his endurance as a pedestrian, and on the steadiness of pace which enabled him, almost infallibly to calculate the distance that he traversed by the time that he spent over it."

Another great pedestrian was Wadsworth, who, it is said, in the course of his rambles must have traveled a distance of 180,000 miles, though De Quincey writes that the poet's legs "were certainly not ornamental, having been condemned by every female connoisseur," commenting further, "It was really a pity that he had not another pair for evening dress parties."

Walking was a source of intense pleasure also to Robert Louis Stevenson, as it had been to his great predecessor, Sir Walter Scott; and he made a reputation for himself in Scotland for his ability in that respect. In order to see something of the country on a trip to America he set forth from New York on foot for an excursion through New England to Montreal. Charles Dickens was one of the most inveterate walkers of all literary men, and with Charles Lamb might even rank as rival to the wandering author of "The Bible in Spain."

All of these men have left a surprising amount of material in their essays or diaries to tell of their pedestrian feats. They were not mere strollers but extraordinary performers on account of whose record-breaking speed and endurance on longer jaunts might put even such good walkers as Miss Sears of Boston or some of our cross-continent ramblers to shame.

Other famous pedestrians who have left accounts of their feats or whose pedestrian accomplishments have been recorded for them were John Dalton, the discoverer of atomic history; Southey and Keats, the poet; Macready, Sir William Hamilton, William Cowper, Edgar Allen Poe, Henry Fawcett, Professor Wilson, or as he is better known under his famous pseudonym, "Christopher North", Sir Rowland Hill, Samuel Rogers, William Hutton, Edward Miall, Archbishop Whately, Horatio Ross, John Metcalf, Thomas Stothard, Vice Chancellor Shadwell, Lord Chief Justice Denman, Henry Kirke White, John Burroughs, Thoreau, Faraday and a host of others too long to enumerate.

Roosevelt, sportsman and all-round athlete, was one of the best walkers, but from other written accounts of and by our most conspicuous statesmen, writers and thinkers, one is led to believe that among the great in America the art of walking has fallen into decay.

MIX SOCIAL LIFE WITH WORK

Not a social butterfly and a social lion but a boy and girl who are working their way through school have been chosen chairman and queen of the junior prom, at the University of Wisconsin, at Madison. They are Willard Momson, of Milwaukee, who clerks in a clothing store in his spare time, and Miss Betty Failing, of East Orange, N. J., who spends the hours between classes as hostess in a tea shop. The dance is the most important social event of the season.

Former Contractor Recalls Old Times

"Billy" Rhodenbaugh Tells Of Prices In Building Trades Years Ago

Tom F. Shingledecker of West Middlesex, received a letter from his old friend "Billy" (W. B.) Rodenbaugh, formerly of New Castle, the other day in which interesting incidents in the prices of building trades were given when he first started as a contractor in this district.

Mr. Rodenbaugh is now located in New York city, and in his letter tells of times in New Castle in 1893, among which he mentions the building of the dance platform at the Fourth of July celebration of the Junior Order of American Mechanics which was held in 1893. He speaks of a watch that he bought the year before from Col. Hutcheson's auction room and it is still going strong.

Mr. Rodenbaugh who has been in New York for 20 years has charge of the fixture work in the B. Altman and Company store where there are over two million dollars worth of fixtures in the store that are made chiefly of rosewood and mahogany. The work on them is as fine as the work on a piano.

In recalling old contracting days in New Castle, "Billy" says that in those times contractors after paying their help were expected to live on wind. He says that he did the work on a 16 by 32, dozens of times for $60 down, which now in New York would not put on the siding alone.

He says, "imagine building a chimney in one of the modern homes for $35." It costs $35 for 1000 brick delivered on the job and the tender gets $8 to $10 a day and the bricklayers from $14 to $18 per day and they would spend at least 2½ days in making the chimney. The chimney now costs almost as much as one would get for an entire house in the nineties. He says that houses in New York, 20 miles out from downtown which are not half as good as he used to build for $2000 now sell for $15,000 to $30,000.

The house that Mr. Rodenbaugh now lives in with 7 rooms could have been built at that time for $1200 and he pays $120 a month and that is cheaper rent than one generally has to pay. He thinks it is cheaper to rent than to own a house in New York these days for taxes and repairs, etc., run nearly 8 per cent on the investment and then your house is wearing out all the time. Most of the rooms are 10 by 12 and are considered large rooms.

In closing his letter he sends regards to all the old crowd and wonders how many of them are left. He is 63 years old.

Wood And Mellon Are In Conference

Central Pennsylvania Politics Occupying Attention At Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 28.—Central Pennsylvania politics held the center of the spotlight in the Capitol City today, while Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon and Col. Eric Fisher Wood, executive chairman of the State committee, held a series of conferences with mid-state politicians.

Selection of delegates to the National Republican Convention from the Eighteenth Congressional District was one of the subjects discussed.

Mellon and Governor John S. Fisher conferred at the Executive Mansion last night, but both indicated that no immediate selection of a secretary of the State Senate would be made.

The newest possibility mentioned for that post is W. Boyd Hamilton, the Governor's secretary.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Enough is as good as a feast.
—Senator Smoot.

Enough is very good may be;
Too much is good enough for me.
—Senator Simmons.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—How much of a tax cut?

"Enough," advises Senator Smoot, "to clean up most of the treasury surplus, without the risk of running the government into the hole for part of its next (fiscal) year's expenses.

"That is, 'round about the 225-million dollar reduction that Secretary Mellon recommended and President Coolidge backed him up in."

"Enough," demands Senator Simmons, "to make dead sure of cleaning up the surplus, and who cares if it's a whole lot more, too! Uncle Sam's credit's good. We can always make up a deficit later. The taxpayer never does get back his money that goes into a surplus kitty."

As Senator Smoot remarks, Secretary Mellon suggested a 225 million dollar cut.

According to all rules, Congressman Bill Green, chairman of the house of representatives ways and means committee, which gives birth to all financial ills, ought, as a Republican, like Secretary Mellon, to have seen to it that the secretary's say-so was abided by. But he didn't. The committee decided Mellon had been a little stingy, and increased the cut to 232 million and some odd hundreds of thousands.

Even this didn't suit Congressman Garner, the committee's senior Democratic member. He labored with the house of representatives to give the reduction still another tilt, and the house, conscious that tax cuts are popular, shoved it up to 289 millions and a good bit odd—nearly 290.

It was in this shape that the thing landed in the senate, where the finance committee of the latter body is now 'rass'ling with it.

The job of Reed Smoot, its chairman, the well known senator from Utah, a loyal 'administration man", is to get the figure back as nearly as he can to Secretary Mellon's $250,000,000. Senator Furnifold M. Simmons of North Carolina, senior Democratic committeeman, on the other hand, proposes to boost it to $400,000,000, or as close to it as possible.

Simmons wouldn't stick at 500 or 600, but 400 is what the United States Chamber of Commerce is hollering for; therefore it's a good mark to shoot at.

Rather strangely, it may seem, the senate, which supposedly is decidedly more anti-administration than the house of representatives, isn't as likely as the house to side against Mellon.

Yet the explanation's quite simple.

Theoretically—though it didn't work out that way in the lower house—the senate Republicans should help Smoot to get the tax cut back toward $225,000,000; the Democrats should help Simmons to whoop it up to $400,000,000.

And the Progressives, who hold the balance of power, generally are ag'in the administration, but it so happens that they're not in favor of giving the taxpayers the immediate benefit of a treasury surplus, when there is one; they want it applied on the national debt, to wipe it out all the faster.

Simmons can't see the sense in this—let posterity worry about some of the national debt, he argues. (Posterity's at the disadvantage of not having any vote for present-day senators.)

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE LOST HOPE

"Climbed a tree! Ate up house, honey and all!" gasped Peter. "How terrible! Couldn't you do a thing to stop that Bear?"

"Not a thing!" buzzed the Bees. "Goodness knows, we tried. When he was yet a long way off we spied him and hurried home from the flower field to give the warning!"

"Didn't the Bees have time to make their escape?" asked the Boy.

All four of the little Brown Bees stared at Peter in surprise.

"We didn't try to," buzzed they, at last. "Surely you have forgotten all you ever knew or you never knew much about Bees or you would not have asked that question. Bees never desert their home, never! No, sirree! Warned, our people made ready for that Bear. When Mr. Bruin first set paw on the trunk we flew at him and tried to sting his eyes, his nose, his hide. But never a bit cared he. On and up he climbed. Then we did our best to smother him. We stung him till our stingers were tired. No use! He reached the lim where hung our nest. He raised his huge paw. One strike! Two strikes! Three strikes! And down to the ground tumbled our home of wax—our home that we had worked so hard and so long to build, our home that was so beautiful and roomy. But, oh, how can we tell it—down to the ground tumbled the babies, too!"

"Tch! Tch!" Peter felt very sorry for the poor Bees, and said so, and the little Brown Bees went on.

"Soon a new Queen would have sung in her cell. Nobody knows what splendid workers would have come out of the waxen cradles. Lost, lost, all lost—princesses, workers and all. Head over heels, down tumbled Growly, the Bear!"

The Bees had been very sorrowful, but suddenly Peter noticed that their buzzing had taken on a new note. He listened carefully. One little flyer was humming:

"The Queen—if only we could find the Queen! Perhaps she is alone but safe somewhere nearby."

"The lost hope of our race, but perhaps she is safe and nearby," hummed the three others, joining in the song of hope, their voices were joyful. "We shall go to find her."

De Lillo And Chill Ready To Appear

Plans Progressing For Newsies Dinner And Show Here Next Monday

Frankie de Lillo, the boy with the silver voice and "Radio Bill" Chill as accompanist will appear at the Newsies banquet-show which is to be provided next Monday by Alex Silverman and Saul Leff, of the Leslie Hotel. De lillo and Chill today sent a letter to the banquet committee in which they stated their willingness to contribute their talent toward making the affair a success.

When Silverman and Leff recently requested a committee to arrange for the Newsies banquet it was decided that the menu would consist of turkey, chicken, roast beef, roast pork, potatoes—in fact, everything that goes to satisfy the appetite of a young American; in fact any lad who does not feel satisfied with one dinner can have two if his appetite is large enough. The dinner of course was arranged for January 2.

The performers, young men and girls of New Castle, annually contribuate their services to the committee so that the show proves a success. Last year 21 acts were staged. So far the Palace Entertainers, a jazz orchestra, Mrs. Sarah Rinehart, Herbie Jina with De Lillo and Chill, Harry Ross and others have offered and had their services accepted and there is room on the bill for other acts.

Persons who wish to help make the second day of the year the starting of a happy new year for the boys and girls who carry the News and other newspapers here can communicate with Ed. Fritz at 4000, the News. He is chairman of the committee which arranges for the annual banquet.

Special Program This Evening In Central Church

A program for the year in keeping with the holiday period will be given this evening in Central Presbyterian with the pastor, Dr. C. B. Wingerd, presiding.

The theme will be "What Christmas Means To Me". The speakers are —Mrs. Mary Tidball, "What Christmas Means At 90"; John Bright, "What Christmas Means At 85"; Wylie W. Wallac, "What Christmas Means In Middle Life"; Miss Margaret Lowery, "What Christmas Means To A School Teacher"; Miss Anna Jean Jackson, "What Christmas Means to a High School Girl".

Coasting Victim Is Still Serious

Edith Clark, one of the numerous victims of the coasting accident on Long avenue last week, was today reported by the New Castle hospital authorities as being about the same. She has been in a serious condition ever since the accident occured and her condition has not improved much.

Claire A. Norris injured in the same accident and in a serious condition for several days, was today reported to be somewhat improved.

Opening Guns In Canyon Dam Fight Fired By Swing

California Representative Says All Future Developments Threatened

PREDICT HEATED FIGHT IN CONGRESS

Power Companies Active To Force Boulder Canyon Dam Policy On Congress

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—All future developments of reclamation works will be threatened if the power companies succeed in forcing their Boulder Canyon dam policy on Congress, Representative Phil Swing (R) of California, co-author of the Swing Johnson bill, declared today.

Swing's declaration was the opening gun in the new Boulder Dam fight which will get under way when both Senate and House irrigation committees start hearings next week.

Big power interests are openly opposing the Swing-Johnson bill because it contemplates government building of great power plants at the dam site on the Colorado river.

"The advocates of the Boulder Dam project are not proposing a new policy of government reclamation and flood control, but the power interests are," said Swing.

"The United States has followed the policy of making a full economic development of a reclamation project when it builds a dam. The government has built 14 hydro-electric power plants in carrying out this policy.

"Should Congress, by rejecting the Swing-Johnson bill, change this policy at the behest of the power companies, future reclamation work would be virtually impossible."

The Boulder Dam backers are prepared to confront the recalcitrant Arizona representatives with the charge that Arizona's demand for payment for letting one end of the dam rest on Arizona soil will react against every western state.

Young People To Present Play At Second U. P. Church

Christmas Entertainment To Take Place Thursday Evening; White Gift Service

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Second United Presbyterian church on County Line street, will be held Thursday evening in the church at 7:45 o'clock and will be in the nature of a musical play, "A Christmas Revelation", musical arrangement by Robert H. Terry, dialogue and lyrics by Jane C. Tyler.

The story of the play centers about the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter who have spent the 12 years of their married life in such close pursuit of wealth and society that they have gradually lost sight of the real things of life.

The visits to Mrs. Hunter's old home in Hillsboro, N. H., have been few and of short duration. This is the first Christmas that grandparents have spent with the family since the twins were babies, and the almost absolute ignorance of the children as to the real meaning of Christmas comes as a revelation to both parents and grandparents; while the real meaning as portrayed in the songs and stories told that Christmas eve comes as a most wonderful and beautiful revelation to the children.

The characters of the play and those presenting them are as follows:

Mrs. John Hunter, Alberta Brenner.

Ralph and Lois Hunter, children of Mrs. Hunter, Vance Glenn and Martha Randles.

Mary, the maid, Anna Marie Black.

Sylvia, the governess, Hazel Louise Campbell.

David Nutley, the grandfather, Edward Bollard.

Deborah Nutley, the grandmother, Margaret Brenner.

John Hunter, husband of Mrs. Hunter, John Barnes.

Betty Brown and Bennie Jack, waifs, Lavantia Campbell and Robert Ray.

Santa Claus, David Rees.

Spirit of love, Wilma Woods.

Carol soloist, Elaine Bollard.

Carol singers, children of the various departments of the Sunday school and members of the choir.

As a fitting close to the little play, in which the spirit of loving and giving predominates, the presentation of the white gift will be made by the following representatives of the different departments of the Sunday school:

Primary department, Miriam Clinefelter.

Junior department, Alma Broadbent.

Intermediate department, Dale Heasley.

Advanced department, Hazel Hanna.

Seventh Ward News

Pre-Christmas Mail Heavy At Ward Post Office

More Than Thousand Bags Handled; Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

Pre-Christmas mail at the Mahoningtown post office was heavy this year. Approximately more than one thousand bags of mail were handled at the local office during the Christmas rush which began last Monday and lasted up and including last Friday. This estimate included both incoming and out-going mail.

Approximate estimate of in-coming mail each day last week was as follows: Monday 50 bags, Tuesday 50 bags, Wednesday 75 bags, Thursday 100 bags, Friday 100 bags, and Saturday 100 bags.

Estimate of bags of out-going mail at the local office for each day: Monday 90 bags, Tuesday 90 bags, Wednesday 100 bags, Thursday 100 bags, Friday 100 bags, Saturday 75 bags.

The sale of two-cent stamps, averaged about 6,000 daily for the week. While many 3-cent, 4-cent and 20-cent stamps were sold.

E. M. McBride, superintendent at the Mahoningtown post office stated this morning there appeared to be many more Christmas cards sent this year than in past years, while there may have been as many parcel post packages but the packages were not as large as in past years, due probably to the fact that work has been slack.

But placing the sale of two-cent stamps at 6,000 a day for a week in the seventh ward this is a very large number when you consider the population of the ward is about five thousand people.

S. G. Moore Sponsors Cook Forest Appeal

Local Representative Volunteers Service To Aid Purchase Of Beauty Spot

Cook Forest association whose offices are located in Pittsburgh, has accepted the offer of S. G. Moore of 336 Park avenue to represent the association in this vicinity and he states that he is ready to volunteer his services to clubs, granges, societies or any organization to bring this important appeal before the public.

Mr. Moore has been furnished with pamphlets, maps, views and pledge cards and invites pledges from all citizens. Pledges of all sizes are being received to protect this beautiful tract of virgin white pine forest from the ax. Also he is ready to give any kind of information concerning the spot of beauty and the project for the purchase of it to make a state park.

In order to bring the work before the greatest number of people Mr. Moore said that he is prepared to speak before clubs, societies, granges, schools and other organizations showing just what and where Cook Forest is and why it is important that citizens of this district get behind the making of it a state park. Mr. Moore can be reached at his residence, 336 Park avenue, or by telephone, 3620-M.

During the past summer many New Castle people motored to Cook Forest for a day or longer and all are enthusiastic over the beauty of the spot. It is hoped that hundreds of people will avail themselves of this opportunity during this next summer. It makes an ideal place to spend a day in the summer and can be reached easily in a few hours from New Castle.

The best route given from New Castle to Cook Forest is via Slippery Rock, Franklin and then over the Lakes to the Sea highway to Clarion where one turns north to Cooksburg, but several say that the road via Oil City, Coal Hill and Fryburg is a better road.

Cook Forest is a tract of more than 7,000 acres of virgin white pine located in Clarion, Forest and Jefferson counties, 16 miles from the Lakes to the Sea highway at Brookville or Clarion and is an overnight ride from New York or Chicago and thus is within reach of millions of people.

Besides the acres of magnificent pines reaching 125 feet into the sky, some of them over 400 years old, it contains fine specimens of every kind of plant and tree life of this community. Many miles of beautiful trails lined with rhoddendron and other beautiful plant life wind their way through these forests.

Cook Forest association expects to raise a fund of $200,000 to meet $450,000 appropriated by the state legislature for the purchase of Cook Forest for a state park and then develop it with safe and sanitary camp sites, proper roadways, convenient inn, museum building.

In this museum will be kept specimens of wild life and information for visitors. Also the name and address of each individual or organization contributing to the effort will be kept on record here so that those who come after may know who made this priceless heritage possible.

Much of value would be lost if a few wealthy persons would do this alone. So although the project is assured by several wealthy friends of natural beauty, yet the more widely the subscriptions are distributed the greater asset it will be to the country as a whole, in its influence educationally and scientifically, as well as recreationally. Thus regardless of the amount subscribed, all should participate.

Many schools throughout the state are making contributions as rooms or schools and thus the schools will go on record as subscribers.

Morgan Is Selected As Chairman Of Steel Board; Farrell Is Chief Executive

J. PIERPONT MORGAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—John Pierpont Morgan, international banker, has become the nominal head of the United States Steel corporation founded by his father.

The board of directors, meeting here late Tuesday, elected Morgan as chairman of the board to succeed Elbert H. Gary, who died last August.

Myron C. Taylor, attorney and corporation executive, was named as chairman of the finance committee, a post also held by Mr. Gary.

James A. Farrell continues as president of the corporation and becomes its chief executive officer, under the direction and supervision of the finance committee and the board of directors.

This action virtually places the destinies of the corporation in the hands of a triumvirate representing finance, business and steel.

While Morgan is the titular head of the corporation the chairman of the board no longer is an executive officer. Farrell, as chief executive, is under direction of the finance committee of which he, Morgan, Taylor, George F. Baker, Sr., William J. Filbert, Nathan L. Miller and Percival Roberts, Jr., are members.

Morgan's election, it was explained by his associates, will not add to his executive responsibilities, he having "acquired a title and not an office." His acceptance of the post was viewed as a means of continuing the close interest of the Morgan family in the affairs of the corporation.

Youth Is Beaten By Boy Bandits

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 28.—Walter Zorgan, 14, of Homestead, was in a serious condition in a hospital here today, from injuries received at the hands of an alleged "boy bandit gang."

Zorgan was responsible for the arrest of two Homestead boys last summer, charged with murder in connection with the $2.75 killing of an unidentified man.

He told police two boys took him to the scene of the killing and while one held him, another battered his head with a crow bar. Attaches at the hospital, stated Zorgan had a chance to recover due to his youthfulness.

Andrew Borho, 11, Homestead, and George Hamrock, 12, Pittsburgh, were held in connection with the beating.

Society pays for its sins. It once made Willie speak pieces on Friday afternoon and now it must listen to his after-dinner speeches.

Truck Is Damaged When Hit By Car, Suit Is Result

The Bixler Baking company of Youngstown, has filed a suit at the Lawrence county prothonotary's office against S. J. Benson of Freeport, Pa., for $220.80, as a result of an automobile accident on East Washington street, near the intersection of Butler avenue. The plaintiff claims that on October 25, 1927, a truck belonging to the company and being driven by J. Gordon Harris was hit by the defendant's machine. It is claimed that there was no contributory negligence on the part of Harris and that Benson was disregarding the law at street intersections when the accident occurred.

Will Sing Carols At Tree Tonight

Marks Last Celebration Of Year; High School Band Will Play

Tonight will be the last evening on which a celebration will be held under the central community Christmas tree, located on the public square, it is announced by the members of the Central Community Christmas Tree committee, and every citizen is urged to be present so that the season may be ushered out as auspiciously as it was ushered in.

The celebration, taking the form of a community sing, will not begin until after prayer meeting, so as to make it most convenient for the people of the city. At 8:30 the Boy Scouts will meet the Senior High school band at the City building, form in column, and march to the tree, where the band will play Christmas carols. Singing will be led by R. E. Johns, and Councilman D. O. Davies. Boy Scouts are requested to bring with them their troop flags.

The Central Community Christmas Tree committee again wishes to thank the people of New Castle for the splendid way in which they have cooperated in this project, and predict that next year, Christmas will be celebrated even better in this city.

Truck Will Take Donations To Store

Trouble experienced by the Home Relief in the collection of garments, foodstuffs and various articles, which the charitably disposed people of this city have been seeking to dispose of through this relief, has been eliminated through the offer made by H. A. Rugh, manager of the Lawrence Ice and Cold Storage company. Any person desiring to have articles delivered to the Home Relief Store can have same collected and delivered immediately by calling Bell phone 502 and a truck will be on the job right away.

A new monoplane of revolutionary design has recently been tested in Germany. It carries the elevator and stabilizing plane at the front, on an extension of the fuselage, instead of at the rear, as in the conventional airplane. Owing to this unusual arrangement of the planes the machine appears, in some aspects, as if it were flying tail first.

Kiwanians Accompany Santa Claus To Home

A guest of wind blew Santa Claus into the Margaret L. Henry Home Tuesday evening and along with Santa came over 60 Kiwanians, their wives and friends for the annual Christmas program and treat.

The childrens' program which was arranged by Miss Ethel Thomas, lasted for almost an hour and consisted of a greeting song, two Santa Claus songs and many kindergarten songs. After the program Santa Claus Bill Wray of Mahoningtown, presented each of the children with the one gift that they desired most. Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church then talked briefly to the children.

After serving the children with a lunch of ice cream and cake, the Kiwanians left and Christmas was over at the Margaret L. Henry Home —the only home that 53 children know about—for another year.

But even before the Kiwanian Santa came to the home other Santas were there. One who desires to be unamed, furnished the children with their Christmas dinner and the Syria Temple of Pittsburgh sent a box to each of the children containing a most coveted article, either a toy or clothing.

And on Christmas day a group of the citizens of New Castle, headed by Mrs. T. A. Patterson each took a child for the day and "adopted" him. The child was left in the home of course, for there is where he would have the nicest time but the good people got him whatever he wanted for Christmas.

Boy Scout News

TROOP 18

The Highland United Presbyterian church troop 18 held their regular weekly meeting at the church at 7 o'clock last evening, in charge of Scoutmaster Ralph F. Davis and Assistant Scoutmaster Bott. Twenty-one boys were present, with committeemen Boston and Brown.

Because they won the patrol contest, it was announced by Scoutmaster Davis that the Raccoon patrol will be given a trip to Niles, O.

All boys are asked to be present at the next meeting, as the dues collected at this time will be used to buy two certificates for reserving Cook's Forest.

TROOP 15

In charge of Scoutmaster Sidney Smith and assistants Gray and McCracken, a meeting of the First Christian church Troop 15 was held Monday evening in the church. After the usual opening ceremonies, Mr. Gray gave several of the boys instruction in the use of bugle and drum, which will compose a corps now being organized by Troop 15.

Plans were also made for a hike along the north bank of the Neshannock. Many tests are planned to be passed on this hike and among them observation, map making, hiking and cooking.

Local Ex-Service Men Must Act At Once On Bonus

There is little time left for ex-service men to make claim for their adjusted compensation. Here in New Castle there are probably several hundred who have made no effort to claim what was rightfully theirs.

Unless the application is made by January 1, 1928, the claim will not be entertained by the government. Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, American Legion will assist ex-service men to make out these applications.

During the day time Ivor V. Davis, president of the New Castle Feed and Coal company on Moravia street will make out the applications while the evenings will find some one in the Legion Home. After January 1, no claims will be taken.

It won't be long now.

Christmas Parties At Neighborhood House

Sewing Classes Enjoy Various Entertainments During The Holiday Season

Children of the Neighborhood House on Sciota street are having an exceptionally good time during the holiday season, attending Christmas parties and entertainments.

The Girl Reserves of the high school entertained about fifty of the smaller children at a Christmas party which was much enjoyed by the little folks.

The Beginners Sewing class of 45 girls in charge of Mrs. W. C. Stuart, Mrs. Walter Nelson and Mrs. Calvin Smith were guests at a party this afternoon. The older girls taught by Miss Grace Woodworth will be entertained Thursday afternoon and the class in English Thursday evening. Woman's Bible class will also have a social time.

Toys and books donated by the Reading Circle, Sorosis and First Presbyterian congregation will be given to the children by the superintendent Miss Christine Butler. The Noami Circle and Dorcas class of the Highland Avenue United Presbyterian church are assisting in the Christmas festivities.

Last Sunday the scholars of the Bible school were given a treat.

UNION TRUST COMPANY OF NEW CASTLE

U. S. Dirigible Back After Fruitless Effort To Find Lost Fliers

(International News Service)

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Dec. 28.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles was placed in its hangar here at 1:15 o'clock this morning after an unsuccessful search off the coast of New England for "The Dawn", missing Grayson plane.

The dirigible appeared over the field at 11:35 p. m. and landed at 12:20 a. m. The airship patrolled the "ocean graveyard" from Cape Cod to Emerald Banks, about 170 miles southwest of Halifax, and then started back again. Although every person on the ship scanned the seas and huge searchlights threw powerful beams of light across the waters, no trace of the missing plane or its occupants was seen.

According to Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, who was in charge of the ship, the Los Angeles covered about 1,200 square miles in its search. Two United States destroyers, the Mahan and the Sturtevant, assisted the search from below, sailing 15 miles apart.

Rosendahl said he had received no orders about what to do with the Los Angeles today. He said he did not "expect" orders to take her back into the search area.

"There should be some restraint imposed on these fool-hardy flights that have no real value, only personal value," the lieutenant commander stated emphatically.

The Los Angeles behaved well throughout the trip, he said.

Mercer Will Build 100 Miles Of Roads

Program To Extend Over Several Years; To Cost $5000 A Mile

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 28.—Signed up ready for building are 100 miles of ash and slag road in this county that wil cost to construct an average of $5,000 a mile.

This number of miles is distributed over the entire county, every township excepting one of the 32 in the county being interested.

This road construction program was signed for last winter. It was not possible to construct it due to the lack of funds on the part of the state highway department.

The roads will be built before any more are signed up it is said at the office of the county commissioners today.

It has been the custom to build these roads on a basis of the township county and state each paying one-third. A total of 200 miles of this type of roads have already been built in the county.

New State Code Is Drastic On This Provision; Other Regulations

"One of the most important provisions of the new motor code, and a point which will have to be watched with utmost rigidity by local drivers, is that which covers passing street cars," declares Bernard N. Hanlon, manager of the New Castle Motor club in discussing the new highway laws, which become effective the first of the new year.

In passing a street car, Mr. Hanlon points out, vehicles may not go to the left of the car, whether it is in motion or not, when a travelable portion exists to the right of the car, except on a one-way street.

The old provision is re-enacted: That no motor vehicle can pass a street car on the side on which passengers get on or off until the car has started and the passengers have reached the side of the highway. This provision, however, does not apply where traffic is controlled, or where a safety zone has been established.

Another point in the new law which is re-enacted from the old, provides that all vehicles must come to a full stop when entering or crossing a through-traffic street from side streets or side roads.

Again, Mr. Hanlon states, it is illegal to display or to have in one's possession an operators license or a learners permit which is fictitious, or which has been cancelled, revoked, suspended, or altered. This section of the law also makes it illegal to lend an operator's license or permit, to represent as one's own an operator's license or learners permit that has been issued to some other person, and to refuse to surrender upon demand to the Highway Department, license cards, registration plates, and certificates of title.

This point also covers, averrs Mr. Hanlon, the illegality of tampering with or making use of a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner or custodian of the car. The point which covers the unlawfulness of operating a car under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs, or allowing a person under the influence of stimulants to operate a car will be even more stringently enforced in 1928, Mr. Hanlon declares.

We are an idealistic people, but you never hear a woman moaning that she made a mistake when she married a million dollars.

Board Meeting Is Postponed Week

That the regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, which was to have taken place Thursday noon, December 29, has been postponed until Thursday noon, January 5, was the announcement made this morning at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce.

The reason for this postponement, declares David S. Pyle, president of the Chamber, is caused by the fact that most of the members are tied up in holiday activities.

Persia Loses Market For Famous Rugs

(International News Service)

TEHERAN, Dec. 28.—The famous Persian rugs cannot hold their ground against rugs from Turkey, the Caucasus and Turkestan, reports the Administrator General of Finance lamenting that Persia has been robbed of a considerable part of her old markets.

Experts ordered to inquire into the conditions of the industry with a view to stemming the loss of business have reported that the Persian wool today is of poorer quality and that there is a general shortage of supplies.

Painters will be employed to copy old designs, buyers preferring the old patterns to the uncoth modern designs. Copies of old patterns will be distributed throughout the country, specially in the villages where the carpet weavers are in danger of losing their cunning.

Persia is interested mainly in the American market and the fact that America is reported dissatisfied with the standard size of the modern carpet is giving the weavers a lot of worry.

Turkey used to be Persia's only serious competitor in the carpet industry. Today China, India, Greece and France seem to be determined to oust Persia from the field.

Minstrel King's Daughter Denies Show Is "Broke"

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28. — Closing of the Al G. Field minstrel show at Wilmington, O., was today described as "only temporary" by Mrs. Edward Conrad, daughter of the late minstrel king and part owner of the show.

Mrs. Conrad, who with her husband is in charge of the minstrels, said that reports from Wilmington giving the impression that the career of the troupe was at an end were erroneous.

"Because of difficulties encountered in booking theatres for the show we decided to close for the time being," she said. "It is probable that we will put the troupe in vaudeville until more satisfactory bookings can be made."

The troupe was organized 41 years ago by Al G. Field, who formerly had been in the circus business. Upon his death seven years ago, the daughter and her husband became owners.

NEW COUNTRY.

A member of the Oklahoma bar tells this story:

A lawyer in Guthrie was examining a witness and put to him this question: "What is your nationality?"

"I am a Dane," said the witness.

"Ah, yes; and when did you come over from Dane?"

Don't worry about the next generation being soft. Look at the bond issues it will have to pay off.

New Castle Inventors Are Granted Patent

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 28. — Railroad building will be greatly expedited and the time required for laying rails considerably shortened if general use is made of a device invented by Andrew Sekely and Alexander Ladanyi of New Castle, Pa., who have just been granted a patent by the United States Patent Office.

The feature of the device, which is a joint for fastening two railway rails together, lies in the fact that only one set screw is necessary to secure strength and stability at the joint. At the present time as many as half a dozen lock bolts are required to hold joint plates in place, and adjusting these bolts requires considerable time which could be saved by the use of the new invention.

A patent has also been granted to Harry G. Traver of Beaver Falls, Pa., for his invention of an amusement device which operated on the same principle as a merry-go-round. The device includes a passenger car which runs around a track. The car has two sets of wheels, one of which will give a wobbly motion, and the other an even motion to the car when it is in operation.

Traver applied for a patent on his invention in July, 1925, and Sekely and Ladanyi filed their application for patent rights last March.

Still Work for U. S.

Miss Lena Hitchcock

Although it is 10 years since the World war, the women who served overseas are still working for Uncle Sam through their organization, the National Women's Overseas Service League. The establishment of a permanent fund for caring for their disabled members, and a hostess service for all the permanent and summer army camps are the two outstanding aims of the league, according to the president, Miss Lena Hitchcock, Washington, D.C.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

One of the fathers of the city—a good, substantial burgher, at that—reports that a saga should be chanted to the scarcity of Christmas trees on the day before Christmas. It seems that he was worried moving, and neglected to lay in his holiday greenery until the last minute. On going down town, he was surprised to find that none could be had, or so it seemed. Northing daunted him, however, and after long and diligent search, he finally located a tree, so bedraggled, though, that the merchant made him a present of it. The last Christmas tree in New Castle, he claims, and that is how it was disposed of.

Speaking of trees, the girls in the children's department of the library are in a quandary. For a whole afternoon they worked, trimming a tree for their childish constituents, and made a job that was not at all bad. Imagine their surprise when they entered the building Tuesday morning and found nary a needle on the tree. All had fallen off, from lack of water, it is claimed.

The old Dutch custom—for it is a Dutch custom—of skating seems to be dying about New Castle. Why are there not more skaters? Pa Newc wonders. So far he has seen but few, and they were at a pond at Weigletown, a place ideal for skating.

After all, street car operators are human. Yesterday afternoon on the North Hill run, one unbended himself. Seeing a woman with two small children standing on the curb, waiting for the car, the operator, after opening the door, got up, lifted in the kiddies, and seated them, also helping on the woman. Little incidents like this occur every day on the car lines of New Castle, but are seldom mentioned.

VIGNETTES—Hawkers and comeon men have migrated from Washington street, for Christmas is over for another year.....But with the next circus or fair they will be with us again.....Bargain sales, the aftermath of the Christmas season..... And a man carrying a neat little box down the street which suddenly breaks forth in a loud, strident ring .....It is an alarm clock.....

Tonight the Boy Scouts of New Castle will join with the High School band in a celebration around the Central Community Christmas tree. And you, citizen, won't you come out and carol a bit?

Because of a light fog that enveloped the city, the curb lights looked dimmer than usual last night. It might not be a bad idea for the city officials to give consideration to the idea of putting larger globes in the Washington street lights. Curb lights to be effective must be conspicuous and those that are now in use are not what would be termed very noticeable.

Some New Castle citizens are rather anxious as to "what the new city administration is going to do." It's a safe bet that law-abiding citizens of New Castle are not worrying.

These are busy days for the window trimmers. In practically every store in the city Christmas windows held full sway for the past few weeks. But Christmas is over, and all windows are now being given a new setting.

There must be some good skating out along the Wilmington road in the vicinity of Walmo. We have noticed a considerable number of lads carrying ice skates out in that direction of late.

Proposition made to city council by some farmer who wants to rent the city poor farm should be accepted. Pa Newc is inclined to believe. It would be better to get at least the revenue that could be derived from rent than to allow the farm to "lie idle".

Vandals who are stealing the warning lanterns from The Narrows are doing more than perpetrating a stunt. They are endangering lives of persons who happen to be traveling that roadway and do not know of the conditions that resulted following the recent high water. It is a serious offense when one stops to consider the possible consequences.

If she "doesn't care what people think," she is like a driver with four crumpled fenders. There is nothing left to lose.

May Soon Name County Detective

BUTLER, Dec. 28.—Much interest is shown in Butler county regarding the probable successor of Newton V. Loucks, as county detective. The appointment will be made by District Attorney-elect Charles H. Miller and the announcement is expected soon after he enters upon his duties next Tuesday. It is generally admitted that Mr. Louckes will not be re-appointed and it is hinted that the appointee will be a man not now active in police circles of the county.

Rev. Whilding Is Presented With Gift

On Christmas evening a very pleasant surprise was tendered to Rev. S. Whilding, pastor of the First Congregational church.

During a short business meeting a purse containing a substantial sum of money was presented to Rev. Whilding, with Councilman D. O. Davies making the presentation speech. Mr. Davies expressed the good will and deep appreciation of the congregation for Rev. Whilding's work.

The gift was graciously accepted by Rev. Whilding.

Entire Pittsburgh Police Force Hunts For Negro Slugger

Several Pittsburgh Women Report Being Attacked And Robbed By Negro

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 28. — The entire Pittsburgh police force was called on today to put an end to assaults on white women by negro sluggers, prowling through the residential districts here.

Almost nightly, police reports show from one to three women attacked by the phantom negro slugger.

Last night Mrs. Dorothy Alexson, 24, was slugged and robbed of her purse and packages she was carrying. A short time later Mrs. Frank Ott, in a different section of the city, was knocked down and robbed of her purse.

Mrs. Ott said the slugger forced her to accompany him a block at the point of a knife, threatening to kill her if she made an outcry. She managed to break away from him as he tried to force her to enter a field with him.

Christmas Night Coldest Of Week

Christmas Eve Within One Degree Of Being Just As Cold

Weather for the past week has been mostly cloudy and cold, according to the report of E. J. Quest, co-operative observer for the United States weather bureau, which have their station located at the pump station of the New Castle Water Company.

The lowest temperature of the past week was on Christmas night, when the mercury dropped to nine above zero, but Christmas eve was nearly as cold, with a temperature of 10 above zero. The highest temperature reported during the week up until yesterday was 40 degrees, which happened on last Thursday. Most of the week the mercury was below freezing.

Two clear days were reported during the week, the rest being cloudy, but even though cloudy there was little snowfall since the big snow storm of Monday night, Dec. 19.

Owing to the continual cold weather the snow that fell two weeks ago and last Monday remained on the ground over Christmas and gave us a white Christmas. But the sun's rays on yesterday took a great amount of the snow off the ground, streets and roads, especially on slopes exposed to the south.

"Why don't you take me?"
"'Cause yo' ain't ast me."
"Well, now I asts yo'."
"Well, now I has yo'."

NINE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD EMPLOYES ARE AWARDED MEDALS

Nine Heroic Acts By Pennsy Employes In Past Year Merit Gold Badge Awards

Several Lives Saved By Quick And Heroic Work On Part Of Pennsy Employes

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—Nine heroic service medals were presented to employes of the Pennsylvania railroad today for acts of valor beyond the regular line of duty by General W. W. Atterbury, president. Five of the honored employes were from the Eastern region, three of them being Pennsylvanians, while three were from the Western region and the other one from Pittsburgh, representing the Central region.

The men honored were as follows:

Davis Kehoe, Bristol, crane operator of a work train, who rescued a fellow-worker from the path of an oncoming freight train near the Torresdale station on June 8, 1927.

Charles H. Price of Lewistown, a car oiler of the Sunbury division rescued three little girls from the edge of a station platform as an express train thundered down upon them. But for the quick action of Price, the trio officials said, would have been drawn under the train by suction.

Robert J. Martin, supervisor's clerk at Sunbury, rescued B. J. Johnson of Kingstown from in front of an approaching train at the third street crossing in Sunbury on August 10, 1927, to earn the award. Johnson fell apparently injuring himself as he crossed the tracks in front of the train but Martin pulled him to safety.

Luis Duris, Southduquesne, Pa., laborer, was the only man from the central region to receive a medal.

Joseph McMahon, a crossing watchman at Pitman, N. J. saved the life of John Farrell, 79, on May 19, 1927 when Farrell walked out on the tracks and stopped in front of an oncoming train, despite Farrell's protests McMahon pushed him off the tracks.

G. L. Morris, of Wilmington, Del., a yard fireman was the other employe of the Eastern division to be honored. He saved a 5-year old school boy from being run down by a freight train on May 8, last.

The western employes to receive the medals were: Clarence S. Ferguson, assistant enginehouse foreman, Columbus, O., Chester H. Fisher, brakeman, also of Columbus and William Webster, yard conductor of Cincinnati.

Many Prehistoric Mounds In America Says Archaeologist

Evidence Of Prehistoric Man On North American Continent Is Advanced

(International News Service)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 28.—No part of the world has as many prehistoric mounds and monuments as exist in North America, delegates to the American Association for the Advancement of Science in session here, were told by P. E. Cox, state archaeologist of Tennessee.

Ages before man constructed stone pyramids and like structures in the valley of the Nile, prehistoric man prepared more durable monuments on earth on the North American continent, Cox said.

"All existence has been maintained to a controlling degree by earth," he said. "Prehistoric men realized this from the beginning. What more fitting material could have been utilized, not only for preserving the dead, but to prepare for the future existence and to remind coming men of the existence of their predecessors."

Such cities as Nashville and Memphis are located on sites of prehistoric mound, Cox said in emphasizing the importance of the prehistoric graves. He pointed to carthage, in Africa, as the greatest example of powerful cities being built upon the burying grounds of prehistoric personages.

Nickey's Latest Venture Is Flop

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—"Nickey" Arnstein's latest venture, a $400,000 gambling palace in an exclusive residential section of Chicago has turned out a "flop".

Nickey will be remembered first as the former husband of Fanny Brice, stage star, and second because of his sojourn in Leavenworth penitentiary with "Big Tim" Murphy.

Today the strong-armed boys were moving out the mahogany furniture, the expensive draperies, etc., in Nicky's palace because of unpaid bills. It was learned Nickey was flat broke.

POSTPONE STORY HOUR

Because of the Christmas season there will be no story hour at the Public Library Thursday afternoon, December 29, states Miss Helen Minick, childrens' librarian. The next story hour will be held Thursday afternoon, January 5.

A bridge to be erected at Chicopee Falls, Mass., will be the first arc-welded rivetless steel railroad bridge in the world .

Foreign Hotels Greet Castleton

Manager Slack Receives Seasonal Greetings From Japan And India

One of the most unique collections of Christmas cards is the one now being displayed by John L. Slack, manager of The Castleton.

Cards from almost every hotel in the world are in his office. Cards from Bolivia, from the Argentine from Hungary, from Chile, from Czecho-Slavokia, from India and from Japan—and even cards with Christmas greetings in four languages, all are in Mr. Slack's collection.

"It is a custom," says Mr. Slack, "for every hotel manager to greet every other manager that he knows by a card at the Christmas time. Of course, it is such a short time since we opened The Castleton that I did not imagine that our house would get many cards, but somehow or other, the word seems to have been noised about.

"This, I believe, shows the value of advertising. The Castleton is advertised in a hotel directory and a hotel magazine, which is placed in every hostelry in the world. In that way, New Castle and The Castleton are brought before the eyes of the public who are coming this way."

Robert C. Love Was Official In Bank Recently Bombed By Radicals In Buenos Aires

Communists were wont to cause considerable trouble in Buenos Aires several years ago, according to Robert C. Love of the First National Bank of Lawrence County, who for nearly eight years was manager of the Buenos Aires branch of the City National Bank, which was bombed last Saturday.

Mr. Love said that several times these radicals tried to start trouble by strikes, etc., in Buenos Aires and the vicinity, but the government was able to meet the situation adequately each time. While he was there they endeavored to start a general strike and it was nearly successful for a day or two. The city at that time was really put under martial law. The general or commander-in-chief of the army was placed in command of the police department and the rioters were shot down with machine guns and carried away and buried where none of the communists knew where they were. That soon put an end to the strike.

There is a society in the city called "League of Patriots", which has been able to cope with the situation at different times, says Mr. Love. One time the Reds promised a big demonstration on May 1 and it started, but this league of youthful patriots soon ended it. They warned all foreigners, including Americans, to stay off the streets, and as the parade started up the street marchers were mowed down as they started and soon they fled in dismay.

When Mr. Love was in Buenos Aires there was no restriction on immigration and many undesirables were brought into the country, but for the last seven years restricting laws have been passed that limit the immigration to more desirable citizens.

Mr. Love says that it was undoubtedly some radical reds, such as he knew when in Buenos Aires that caused the trouble and bombed the bank within the past few days. He feels happy that he was not there just at this time, for he says that he understands that the man who holds his position received a wound from the explosion.

Hunt Pyromaniac For Quebec Fires

(International News Service)

QUEBEC, Dec. 28.—The third disastrous fire to visit Roman Catholic institutions within two weeks today led to the official opinion that a pyromaniac is at large in the city.

Following the tragic Hospice St. Charles blaze with its 50 dead, and the St. John's Academy fire, the Maizerets Seminary in the suburb of Quebec was destroyed yesterday.

The Maizerets Seminary dated back to 1776 and was one of Quebec's most picturesque landmarks.

Authorities also made known today that an attempt was made to fire the Hotel Dieu Hospital, another Catholic institution, but the "plant" was discovered before damage had been inflicted.

The Daybook of a New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Ever anon, studious gentlemen rise to prophesy darkly concerning the woeful state of affairs that will arise when Manhattan real estate becomes so valuable as to prohibit erection of buildings smaller than the Woolworth tower. Perhaps. Yet one of the most valuable sites in the city contains only a two-story building and, what is more important, seems to be irrevocably destined to retain its modest dwelling. I refer to the corner of Forty-seventh street at the junction of Broadway and Seventh avenue. Walter Salmon, who leases the building, has consistently refused offers of millions for his rights to the place. For the structure is plastered with gigantic electric signs which yield an annual income of $500,000. The rental of the space in the building proper is comparatively unimportant. And I am informed that approximately ten million dollars is spent each year in Times Square for just this sort of rentals.

The feching lady ushers at the Colony murmur "Excuse us" as they direct customers into your row. In the same theatre, I beheld a touching scene, fast passing out of the list of popular amusements. Nearby was a young couple, their hands entwined, their lap covered with two elaborately boxed packages of candy, which gave forth crackling sounds as their owners drew forth the sweetmeats. The modern touch was added as both boy and girl accepted cigarettes proffered by an attendant. As I left the movie, the pair were still there and they had entered before me.

The last occupation in New York that is considered especially appropriate to man, has been undertaken by a woman. Park Row and Bryant Park sidewalk vendors now have a competitor in the person of a middle-aged woman who sells mechanical dolls, and demonstrates their actions on the sidewalk.

Congressmen Sift Variety Of Plans For Flood Control

A Mississippi flood scene, and artist's conception of silt deposits that are causing Mississippi to "back up".

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Flood control plans before the congressional committee on river regulation are almost infinite in variety.

Many—indeed, most—of them are too obviously impractical—not to say crazy—for serious consideration, even by lawmakers who only want something started, without greatly caring how it turns out a generation hence, since then they probably will be dead and correspondingly indifferent.

For instance—

A scheme to suck the Mississippi upstream and squirt it over the Canadian border, to drain into Hudson bay!

Governor's Idea.

Can you imagine that?—from a responsible source!

Yet the governor of a state is that idea's sponsor.

Queer as it may sound, it does recognize one essential principle which the authors of a good many suggestions apparently overlook, viz.:

There's just so much water—too much to drink, too much to evaporate, too much for the soil to absorb, and occasionally too much for normal river channels to hold—which somehow or other and sooner or later, the valley must dispose of; and while one particular locality may manage to head it off by means of a dam, divert it with a dike, or empty it through a spillway, it almost inevitably will flood some other locality.

Almost inevitably!—but not quite—not necessarily.

If a flood can be stood up on edge, and kept so, it can conveniently be rolled out of the way, like a hoop, provided there's an adequate slope to roll it down.

Stick to Levees.

This is why the Mississippi river commission and the board of army engineers have stuck so stubbornly to levees.

Only levees can keep a flood standing on edge.

Reservoirs?

A flood consists of so-and-so-many gallons, acres or cubic feet of water. In none of these respects is its volume in the least reduced by picking it up and setting it down somewhere else under the name of a reservoir.

Making a reservoir out of an Arkansas county may prevent a Louisiana parish from being flooded, but what will Arkansas say about it?

Such is the army engineers' reasoning.

Rivermen gathered in Washington for the flood hearings quite generally agree that the army engineers have done an injustice, in that their adherence to the levee solution of the Mississippi valley problem has been so severely criticized.

The experts' view is that the engineers' solution is the correct one—perhaps subject to some modifications—and that its failure is due to an attempt, in response ot popular demand, to make floods stand on an impossibly thin edge.

That is to say, settlement has crowded literally into river beds, and the engineers have been expected to deal with hogsheadsful of water as if they were mere teaspoonsful.

Gulf Coast Rising.

Whether or not the Mississippi is raising its bed between levees is a bitterly disputed point which it seems as if it ought to be easy to settle with a sounding lead—and yet, it is not so easy.

The bed, toward the river mouth, is rising, but is it rising disproportionately between the levees?

The whole gulf coast is rising.

It is rising due to the Mississippi's silt deposits, and it is rising from underneath—geologically—and appreciably.

Naturally it "backs up" the river.

The engineers' hoop—the flood on edge—rolls at a pretty brisk clip away upstream. The nearer it gets to the gulf, the more slowly it rolls, and the stronger its tendency to tip over.

Nothing If Not Honest

Diogenes Can Find His Man In This Non-Cheating Solitaire Player

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 27.—Mr. Diogenes, who went around with a kerosene flashlight in quest of an honest man, can stop looking. Here in Decatur there is a man who has played 120,000 games of solitaire and never has cheated!

The eminent Greek explorer's investigation would end at 319 West Prairie avenue, Decatur. There engrossing, he would meet C. H. Conklin, 74-year-old bachelor, pasteboard addict, and for 30 years the sworn enemy of Old Sol.

Conklin, who is a railroad conductor in his spare time, probably has played more tricks than Thurston, and held more hands than Clara Bow. He plays Canfield solitaire, considered the most difficult of all domestic and imported solitaires. Of the 120,000 games—120,878, to be exact—he has won only 623. Often, too, it has been a long time between wins; once it was 1,107 games.

Yet he never has made himself any unfair concessions, never stolen a peek at the deck, never cheated. He can prove it. For cheating, while it might beat Mr. Sol, would spoil Conklin's record. He has kept an accurate carefully-tabulated count of every one of the thousands of games played. From this, he has calculateed possibilities, chances and probabilities of every run of his 52 cardboard toys. With this, he has taken the law of averages apart to see what makes it tick.

Soon after Conklin finished his first 10,000 games—while still a mere beginner, you might say—he found that chances of winning at solitaire are 190 to 1, the odds being with his invisible opponent. The average has held good for the first 120,000 games. If you're skeptical, you can test it yourself.

Watching himself closely, he's never detected any card-sharping, he says.

The Canfield player deals out thirteen cards, face down, in one pile. He deals a four-card family, the four side-by-side, face up. Separate from these, face-up, he places a "foundation" card. Then he plays Canfield. The object is to get cards "out," to get cards played.

C. H. CONKLIN

Conklin has played several thousand games in which he has got out only two, three or four cards, but the average luck is five, he has found. After the player gets out 47 cards, a win is certain.

This one-man card player has played his 120,878 games in "odd moments," he declares. But according to his staff statistician, it has required a considerable batch of odd moments.

He plays so expertly that atmospheric conditions affect his game. If the weather is fair, the cards perfectly dry and slipping rapidly, he plays 20 games an hour.

Saddler, 107, At Shop Every Day Outlives Four British Reigns

CHARLES "DAD" QUICK.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 28.—Charles "Dad" Quick, who has just celebrated his 107th birthday, believes he is a long way from the end of the road.

"It all depends on how you live and look at life" he says.

Born in 1820—a year later than the grandmother of the present king of England—Quick has outlived the full reign of three kings and a queen and has seen 17 years of George V's reign.

Nations have risen and descended into obscurity; scores of wars have been fought and Quick's keen memory recalls many of them.

He joined the navy during the Crimean war to fight against the Russians. He traveled through Europe, China, India and Japan and he has crossed the Atlantic 31 times.

Quick was associated with Elias Howe in the invention of the sewing machine and walked from New York to Cleveland in his endeavor to interest capital in the invention.

He is a saddler and is at his shop each day.

He has no set rules to rise and retire by. He likes a good cigar, is fond of horse racing, can play a keen game of whist or poker and enjoys a clever joke.

The Fate Of Grattan

WITH ORDERS TO ARREST SOME SIOUX HUNTERS WHO WERE ACCUSED OF STEALING A COW FROM A MORMON EMIGRANT TRAIN NEAR FORT LARAMIE, LIEUT. GRATTAN, WITH 29 TROOPERS, RODE INTO THE SIOUX VILLAGE AND DEMANDED THE SURRENDER OF THE OFFENDERS.

THE CHIEFS OF THE TRIBE FAILED TO PRODUCE THE CRIMINALS, AND BECOMING ANGERED BY THE ATTITUDE OF THE INDIANS, THE SOLDIERS OPENED FIRE ON A WIGWAM IN WHICH THEY BELIEVED THE FUGITIVES WERE CONCEALED.

THIS ACT MADDENED THE SIOUX AND, SEIZING THEIR WEAPONS, THEY FELL UPON THE TROOPERS. IN A MOMENT GRATTAN AND HIS MEN, TRAPPED AND OUTNUMBERED BY THEIR ASSAILANTS, WERE FIGHTING FOR THEIR LIVES.

OF THE THIRTY SOLDIERS, NOT ONE ESCAPED. AFTER THIS MASSACRE, SOME OF THE SIOUX WENT ON THE WARPATH, BUT THERE WAS NO GENERAL WAR, AS THE MILITARY AUTHORITIES WERE OF THE OPINION THAT GRATTAN'S ACTION HAD BEEN OVERZEALOUS AND UNNECESSARY.

Breach Between Army And Navy Is Increasing

Football Breach Between Service Schools Appears Wider Following Editorial

OFFICIALS RESENT SHARP EDITORIAL

(International News Service)

WEST POINT, Dec. 28.—The football breach between the Navy and the Army was wider today as the result of the hot rejoinder made here by Major W. R. Fleming, of the military academy, to the charges contained in an editorial printed in the Athletic News of the Naval Academy.

Major Fleming was outspoken in his condemnation of the navy's undergraduate paper, characterizing the editorial as a "considerable distortion of the facts."

Replying to a statement made by Major-General Edwin Winans that the main purpose of athletics at West Point was to fit men for army service, the Navy pointed out that seven stars of the military academy had resigned from the Army after graduation.

Replying to a statement by Representative Britten, of the house naval affairs committee, Major Fleming stated that resignation from the army of football players following graduation is less than three per cent instead of the eighty per cent claimed by the congressman. He said that Representative Britten must be poorly informed.

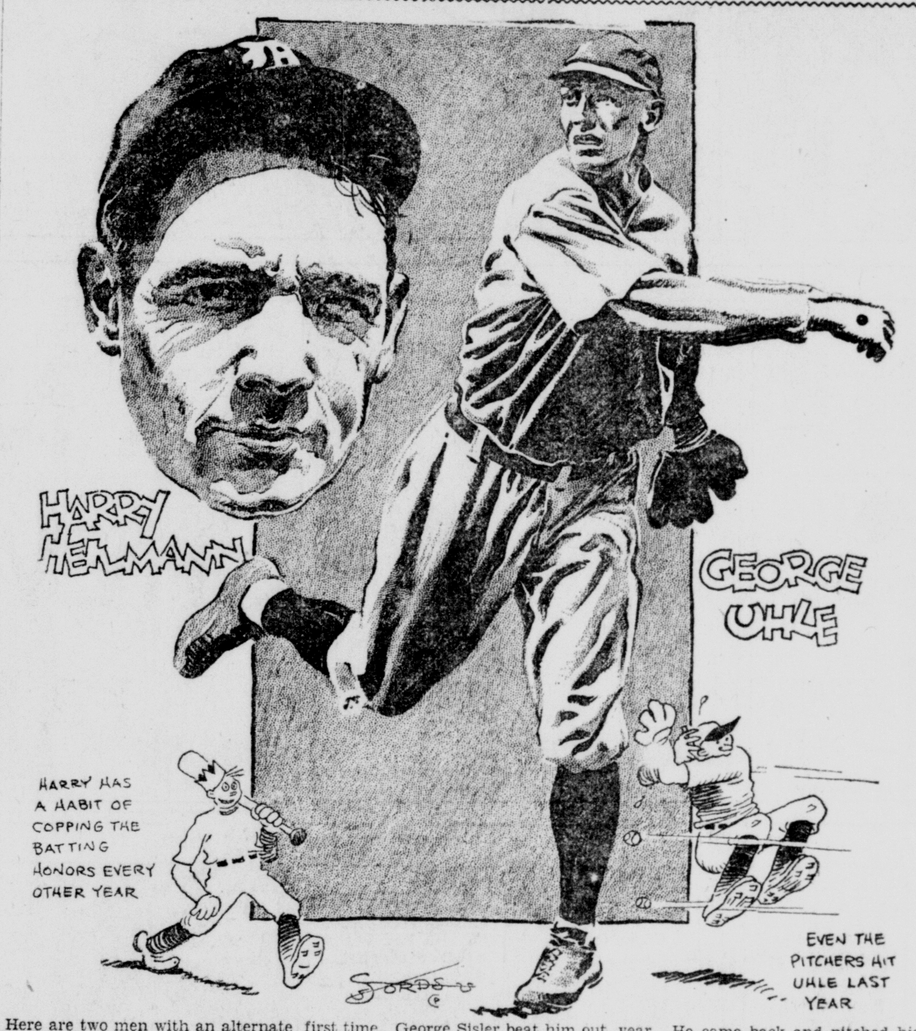
Tonight at the House of Savoia gym the Castletons will battle the Savoia Juniors at 7 o'clock. On Thursday night the Castletons will meet the Temple Israel Juniors at the Temple floor.

SORDS POINTS

Two Players With Alternate Year Complexes



Here are two men with an alternate year complex, Harry Heilmann and George Uhle. Harry is well known for his ability to run off with the American league batting honors every other year, while George, the big ex-sandlotter of the Cleveland Indians, has one good year only to have his offerings plastered all over the American league the following season, and so on.

Heilmann began his old record in 1921 when he led the league for the first time. George Sisler beat him out in 1922. Harry repeated in 1923, but Babe Ruth finished in the lead in 1924. Heilmann led for the third time in 1925, but a teammate, Heinie Manush, took the honor in 1926. Last year was the four consecutive odd year that Harry pulled the stunt.

Uhle won 26 games while losing 11 in 1923, but finished the following year with only 9 wins and 15 losses. The 1925 season saw some improvement but not enough to call it a good year. He came back and pitched his best ball in 1926 by winning 27 games and losing only 11. Last year it was just too bad, but the big fellow can blame it on his arm this time. He was bothered most of the year with a sore finger.

Now if the dope holds true George will have one large time of it next year, much to his own as well as his employers' advantage, and Harry will have to wait two more seasons before he can lead in batting again.

Ex-Stars Will Battle Varsity

New Castle High Floor Team To Meet Old-Timers At Senior Gym Thursday

WILL PLAY AT FARRELL FRIDAY

New Castle High basketball team will play their second home engagement of the year at the Senior High gym on Thursday night, when they tackle the alumni quintet. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner in announcing the game today said that the contest would be started earlier than usual to allow the fans to attend a dance that is to be held later in the evening at the Palais Royal hall.

Walter "Baldy" McGrath, captain of the championship team of 1926-27, will be at the helm of the alumni quintet, it is understood. It was left to McGrath to formulate a suitable aggregation to battle the present varsity combination. McGrath has announced that he will likely use Franklin, Klaber, Day, Robinson, Sumner, Freidman, Hanlon, Kirker and many other stars of recent years. The alumni team, however, is open to all those who were at one time members of the Senior High teams.

Two Games This Week

The New Castle High team will have two important games on tap for this week, first the alumni on Thursday night and at Farrell on Friday night. These two games will serve as pre-season affairs and will get the boys in shape for the league season that opens on Friday night, Jan. 6.

The locals have held several practice sessions since their recent defeat at the hands of Akron South and are slowly reaching the form that is expected of them.

The alumni will no doubt give the High tossers plenty in the way of opposition. With McGrath, Franklin and Klaber, three members of the team that battled to the W. P. I. A. L. championship in their ranks, the ex-stars will be well fortified with fast material. Day, Freidman, Sumner and Robinson were members of the Senior High team two years ago and all of them have kept in condition by playing in the various leagues throughout the city.

Coach Bridenbaugh has not intimated his starting line-up for the alumni game, but it is generally understood that he is rather sweet on the line-up that started the Akron South game last Thursday night.

The alumni team, composed of practically the same line-up that will face the boys on tomorrow night, defeated the Senior High team last year, 27 to 22, in their pre-season contest, and by the way, the alumni was one of the few teams to turn the trick.

Temple Quintet Trims Shamrocks

The Temple Israel basketball team handed the Shamrocks a 37 to 29 defeat at the Temple Israel floor on Tuesday night.

The game was hard fought the entire way and was mighty close in various quarters. At the end of the first half the count stood 17 to 15 in favor of the Temple team. E. Solomon was the big scorer for the Temples with five buckets. Kearns played the best game for the Shamrocks.

The summary:

Temple Israel—37.		Shamrocks—29.
J. Solomon	F	Kearns
J. Ginsberg	F	Panas
S. Levine	C	Sheriden
E. Solomon	G	Mehalic
H. Levine	G	Burns

Subs: H. Plant, C. Zieve, Rush.

Field goals: J. Solomon, J. Ginsberg 2, H. Plant 2, E. Solomon 5, Zieve 2, Levine, Kearns 5, Panas 2, Sheriden, Mehalic, Rush 2, Burns.

Fouls:: Temples 11 out of 20. Shamrocks 5 out of 17. Referee: A. Plant, Geneva.

Athletics Trim Marshalls 31-17

The Athletics upset the dope in the city league on Saturday night by defeating the Marshalls 31 to 17.

The Athletics held a slight lead throughout the game, and at half time had a lead of 15 to 3. The Marshalls showed to better advantage in the final half and tallied 14 points. Paulini and Vago were the high scorers with five baskets apiece.

The summary:

Marshalls 17		Athletics 31
Kerr	F	Roher
Costello	F	Mancine
Melder	C	Vago
H. Kroen	G	Paulini
Genkinger	G	Soyring

Field goals—Kerr, Costello 2, Melder, H. Kroen 3, Genkinger, Roher, Mancine 3, Vago 5, Paulini 5.

Fouls—Marshalls 1 out of 6, Athletics 3 out of 8.

Referee—Kirker.

Westminster Varsity Prepares For Contest With Grove City Five

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 28.—In an endeavor to put his athletes into the best possible shape before the basketball game with Grove City college Friday, January 6, head coach John Lawther has called back twelve of the Westminster varsity players early and will begin twice daily practices Friday of this week.

The regular vacation alotted to the Westminster students does not end until next Monday evening, but coach Lawther will be able to get in five extra practice sessions by having the Blue stars here early.

The Grove City game, which is the season's opener for the Titans, will probably be of the hardest on the schedule, but it is also one that Westminster is eager to win. Following the Grove City game which is to be played on the Crimson floor, the Blue quintet will open its home season with Geneva Wednesday, January 11.

Already several of the United Presbyterian stars are in town and have been practicing shooting but the regular special practice sessions will not begin until Friday.

Here And There In Sports' Land

By ED. FRITZ

Men in the boxing game are transferred with the same agility as a small boy transfers marbles from one pocket to another, according to reports from east and west. The contract of Jack Delaney, purchased by Pete Reilly, has been sold to Joe Jacobs and now comes the report that Steve Webster has disposed of the contract which bound Sammy Baker to fight for him and no one else, has been sold to Jack Kearns. Boys who turn pugilist are merely human investments to shrewd managers and generally they have outlived their usefulness as a fighter, and also for other pursuits, by the time the contract runs its course.

According to reports reaching this office Kid Cangie has broken with Jimmie Dime, having departed rather suddenly for the south. In his first appearance, according to unconfirmed story, Cangie lost his fight. The Kid, several years ago, in a dissatisfied mood trotted to Kansas City and lost there.

William Jolley, the throttle man from Mahoningtown, today stated that January 9 is the date he has set for the opening of the Armory A. A. where young boys seeking fistic glory will get their chance to strut their stuff.

It is said that on the card will be Young Slate from the west side, of whom good things have been heard. "As soon as he is taught to balance himself, he will become a fairly good boxer," says our informant, who watched him in action.

Another rumor that has permeated the city is that Emmett Rocco, who fights Sandy Seifert next Monday at Youngstown, is no longer under the tutelage of Jimmie Dunn. When asked about this, Joe Cuno remarked: "He does better under me."

Spaghet', the boy who hands you your "mornin's mornin'" at Mill and Washington streets, said today his teeth are aching to get a clamp-hold on that turkey that Saul Leff and Alex Silverman will place before the newsies next Monday afternoon.

"It won't be long now," he said as he handed us the papers—and say, tell that girl with the brown eyes to put a double plate in front of me." He is but one of the 500 newsies waiting for the annual Leslie hotel dinner and show.

So far the boys and girls who will go behind the footlights have not all appeared but as soon as "Little Al", the booking agent at Bell 1850, goes into action much more will be accomplished. Actors and actresses are now being solicited. Those who are willing, call up.

If Babe Ruth doesn't break his home run record in 1928 it will not be because he isn't in condition. Artie McGovern, his personal trainer, has reported from New York where Babe is taking physical exercises: "He is in mighty good condition."

The Eastern Association football officials meet today in New York to and will make a determined effort to abolish the lateral pass and make an effort to have the goal posts moved forward 10 yards to their former position.

Sport Ritticisms

Now there is a big demand for umpires. In the old days there was a big demand for umpires' necks.

Before baseball became civilized the man in the electric chair had it on the umpire. He knew when he was going to be killed.

UMPIRES SELDOM STUDIED THE GAME. WHAT THEY HAD TO KNOW BEST WAS HOW TO RUN AND JUMP FENCES.

The average ump was beaned about 15 times a game. After a double-header some of the boys would have a headache.

The strike and ball callers always wore blue because that's the way they felt.

Peanuts were never so popular with the fans, because when thrown the shells never bruised.

ONCE UPON A TIME AN UMPIRE DIED OF OLD AGE. BUT WAIT! THIS IS NO TIME FOR FAIRY TALES.

For several years an engineer has been experimenting at Merlin Bay, near Coogee, Australia, with apparatus which he hopes will harness the waves for creating electric power. He now claims that his invention is complete and that not only is he able to create electric motive power, but that the obstacle of storm interference has been overcome.

From The Panther's Lair

By Feg Murray

Five days to go and the west will see Gibby Welch and Co. try to tear through, over and around the Stanford line which line is led by Capt. MacCreary a stalwart center who ranks close behind All-American Bettincourt of St. Mary's as a valuable pivot man. It's an interesting game, this intersectional Tournament of Roses affair, with "Pop" Warner's old school going out to play the team he now coaches and with "Tiny" Thornhill who was formerly one of Pitt's greatest linemen now assisting "Pop" 'at Stanford.

Before "Pop" left the lair of the Panther to assume his duties out on the coast and when Andy Kerr, his trusty lieutenant was in charge of instilling the Warner system into the youths of Stanford, "Pop" took his Pitt team out to Palo Alto and defeated the Cardinals 16 to 7.

"Gibby" Welch who throws the discus when not playing football will prove himself the outstanding ball-carrier of the year if he has a good day against Stanford. And if "Gibby" has the good fortune to run back a kick-off to a touchdown the fans will begin comparing him to the incomparable Grange whose special forte was catching the opening boot of a game and waltzing 70, 80 or even 90 yards to his opponent's goalline. Twice this year Welch turned in that sensational play, once against West Virginia when he ran the whole length of the field before he scored, and once against the strong Nebraska team, when he dashed 93 yards to a score.

No wonder that Welch ranks with McLaren, Richards, Davies, Peck, Sutherland, Seis, Thornhill, Chase, Kern, Herron and Wagner among Pitt's greatest football players.

Feg Murray Says.

Some blood-thirsty son-of-a-gun writes to say that the game of hockey as it is played, isn't nearly rough enough, and to ask why the ice can't be fixed up like a golf course with traps and bunkers and water-hazards. Words fail me!

Liberty Five To Play At Sharon

The Liberty Five team of the New Castle City league will travel to Sharon on Thursday night to play the Sharon High "Y" team on the Buhl club floor. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The Sharon passers recently handed the locals a 33 to 27 defeat at the Y. M. C. A. and they are anxious for revenge. All members of the Liberty Five are requested to meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 6:30 o'clock to make the trip to Sharon.

Heeney-Sharkey Bout Has Experts Guessing

Gene Tunney Believes That Heeney Is Too Good For Boston Slugger

Sharkey May Fool Public Again; Not Unlike Fight With Dempsey Last Summer

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Quite some few people, including one in particular whom I modestly decline to mention, thought that Jack Sharkey couldn't lose the night he fought Dempsey or whatever it was he tried to do that night. Today, there are just as many who think he can't win when he meets Tom Heeney on January 13 and one of them apparently is a gentleman known as Gene Tunney, of whom one hears occasional references.

Mr. Tunney didn't express this view in public. It seems that he darkened the windows, stuffed the keyhole, glanced apprehensively to right, left and rear and feeling secure against intrusion, imparted the good word to friends, who rushed from the premises in a body to impart it to the first gent they didn't know, who may or may not have been me. Anyhow, it appears that Tunney is looking forward to meeting Dempsey or Heeney or both next summer for the heavyweight championship, but not Sharkey.

In brief and if true, he has something in common with a lot of citizens who have come to look upon the modern Demosthenes as one who is all washed up, even unto the back of the ears.

Tunney Favors Dempsey.

It seems, too, that Tunney believes they can hold the Dempsey-Sharkey fight all over again for 30 nights a month and that the result would be much the same and even more than that. He is quoted as saying that he regards Dempsey as being Sharkey's master at all times after what happened last July. As to that, some people don't exactly know what happened yet, which isn't the point. Praise from Caesar, however grudging, constitutes the point in question.

You might say that Tunney loves Dempsey like a brother, only he would have to be somebody else's.

However, the champion is only expressing once again what is a fairly general sentiment, except that it is probable he knows what he is talking about and the expressers of sentiment probably do not. The idea has become bruited about that the Demosey defeat hurt Sharkey both internally and morally, which is taking in a lot of unexplored territory and only may have been somebody's bad guess in the first place.

The lad may live to fool these doubters. He fooled us before against Dempsey. Maybe he will come out of the silence once again to fool the moulders of public opinion against Heeney.

The source of the doubt surrounding him probably can be found in the fact that he has been ominously quiet these many months. He has said nothing and done nothing and has kept right on doing both and, somehow, the boys cannot figure that one out at a distance. It just doesn't seem right and so, in the natural course of human events, the gent has become a man of mystery and an object of very minute scrutiny.

He added to this by having the first Heeney fight postponed. Yesterday, however, his manager, Johnny Buckley, told the boxing commission that Sharkey was ready, which was a rather favorable omen. Heretofore, Sharkey did all the telling and some of the fighting. Perhaps he has become reconciled now to doing only the latter.

DAN HOWLEY

It will be interesting to know just what success Dan Howley will have with his new team next season. Already he and Phil Ball have done away with some of the Browns' choicest landmarks, including the once great Sisler.

Howley managed the Toronto club previous to taking over the St. Louis "team".

The education is divided into eleven departments and a house of delegates of 550 members, chosen on a membership basis from the local branches of the association.

PENN-CALIFORNIA TILT A TRIBUTE TO PLAYER-COACH

The intersectional game between the University of Pennsylvania and California, to be played at Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 31, will be a tribute to the playing and coaching genius of Andy Smith, whose untimely death shocked the gridiron world a year ago. Smith starred as a player at Penn and later won fame as a coach, spending his last years at California. A players' bench, erected in his honor, will be dedicated before the game. Photos show a striking study of the late Andy Smith; Irvine Phillips (crouching), a member of the California team; Paul Murphy, one of the Penn stars, and the moment that Andy Smith lived for—the clash of healthy, well-drilled athletes on the gridiron.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

The cry is raised by major league magnates now that a big league team must have farms to produce its playing material—that the dearth of good material available prompts, if it doesn't make necessary, such action.

The Cleveland American League club, under new ownership and management, follows its failure to obtain new playing strength by trade or purchase with the statement that it must make minor league connections before it can be assured of a source of supply of material.

It is pointed out that the St. Louis Cardinals and the other clubs that have "farms" are benefitting thereby.

All well and good.

But at the same time we read the news that Jimmy Reese and Lynn Lary of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League are going to the big show at a price around $200,000—via the open market.

The New York Yankees have an option on the pair at $125,000 and the Chicago Cubs are bidding around $250,000 for their services.

Somebody's going to get those two beauties. Not through any working connections with the Oakland club—interlocking directorates or other attachments. But by the simple process of going to Oakland with a sock full of money and laying enough dough on the line to buy the two.

This would make it appear as though there is some other reason besides the alleged scarcity of playing material for the failure of some clubs to acquire new material— and would also point to the real reason for the growth of the "farm" idea.

The presence of two or three minor league clubs as a feeding ground for ball players will eliminate the necessity of paying good money for young players— while netting the owners a fair dividend on the minor league franchise with a good break in luck.

One doesn't have to give $250,000 for two baseball players when one owns the players. The growing boy becomes a two-way assest in fact. His popularity as a "kid" draws the crowds in the bushes and his advent with major league outfit draws more attention. What could be sweeter.

It's all right to point to the development of the big league "farm" a matter of fact it is primarily a money-making idea. Why try to cover that up? It's just plain business.

What happens to the individual minor league club owners who can't hook up with major league clubs is another matter.

* * *

The New York Yankees long have been rated as a slugging team and in the last campaign mowed down the opposition by the mighty power of their bats.

Therefore the pitching averages issued recently are interesting.

They show that the Yankee pitchers led the American League in shutout victories.

In other words the Yankees had the pitching—occasionally at least.

Every club in the league, with the exception of the Athletics, suffered third baseitis at some time during the season. The Boston Red Sox went runless three different times before Yankee pitching. Detroit, Cleveland and the White Sox were held scoreless on two occasions. The St. Louis Browns, although beaten some 21 times by the Yankees, escaped a shutout in every game but one. Washington managed to score in every game against the Yankees with one exception.

It is also an interesting fact that nine of these eleven whitewash feats were performed by the veteran members of the team—Ruther, Pennock, Hoyt and Shocker. Ruether checked the Red Sox twice and halted the Tigers once. Hoyt whitewashed Chicago, Washington and Cleveland. Shocker paralyzed the Indians and the Red Sox, and Pennock held the White Sox scoreless one game. Moore and Pipgras wound up the list by shutting out the Browns and Tigers

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—With the exception of New York City gas-and-electric-light stocks, industrial shares declined slightly at the opening today, as the result of profit-taking and speculative selling. The 5½ per cent call loan rate was a handicap to the forward movement, and definite announcement of the result of the election in the U. S. Steel Board removed this important matter from the realm of speculation.

Election of the powerful triumvirate of Morgan, Taylor and Farrell to the posts of leadership in the Steel Corporation was hailed with enthusiasm in Wall street, but this had been so accurately forecasted that there was little or nothing for the market to "discount" today. After a fractionally higher opening, steel common lost more than a point in the first hour, and many popular motor and independent steel shares sustained similar losses.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Ever since our nursery days, when we heard that "the Queen of Hearts she made some tarts all on a summer day," tarts have had an intriguing sound. They are very attractive to look at, too, and are not hard to make. Mince tarts have a nice Christmasy sound, and the tapioca, raisin, meringue tarts mentioned in the menu here given are a bit of a novelty.

Macaroni and Cheese
Stewed Tomatoes Waldorf Salad
Tapioca Raisin Meringue Tarts
Tea and Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Tapioca Raisin Meringue Tarts — Two cups boiling water, one half cup quick-cooking tapioca, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup sugar, two-thirds cup halved seeded raisins, grated rind and juice of one-half lemon, one egg, pastry. Cook water, tapioca, salt and sugar in a double boiler fifteen minutes, stirring occasionally. Add raisins and cook five minutes longer. Cool slightly, add lemon rind and juice, also egg yolk, beating these ingredients in thoroughly. Turn into tartlet pans, which have been lined with any good pastry, bake fifteen minutes, then cover with a meringue made by beating egg white until stiff, then adding one and one-half tablespoons sugar and a few drops of lemon juice and beating again. Return to a cool oven for about seven minutes to color and set the meringue. Time for making—fifty minutes.

Dawdlers Must Not Speed-up When Car Attempts To Pass

New Motor Code Charges "Reckless Driving" To Creeping Road-Hog

Drivers of vehicles which are overtaken or passed by another vehicle approaching from the rear are required to give way to the right when signaled and are forbidden to increase their speed, Benjamin G. Eynon, registrar of motor vehicles, department of highways, announced today. Mr. Eynon said, "The new Motor Code strictly forbids the speeding up the vehicle when the operator of the vehicle in the rear has signaled his desire to pass.

"More accidents are caused by the so-called creepers or dawdlers on the highways, who proceed at a leisurely speed until overtaken by a passing vehicle and then suddenly step on the gas and speed ahead so as to prevent the oncoming vehicle overtaking and passing him. This type of road hog, who refuse to yield the right of way when signaled to do so, will render himself liable to a charge of reckless driving and, if convicted of such a charge, will be fined $25.00 or imprisoned for a period of ten days."

Eighth Birthday Of Prohibition To Be Fittingly Celebrated

Anti-Saloon League Asks Ministers To Preach On Prohibition Enforcement

Plans were announced today by the Anti-Saloon League of America for a nation wide demonstration by church congregations to celebrate the eighth anniversary of the Eighteenth amendment, prohibiting the making or selling of intoxicating liquor.

Although no definite announcement has as yet been made by local organizations, it is understood that many will enter into the program of the league which includes the ringing of church bells for eight minutes at noon Monday, January 16 which is the eighth anniversary of the date when the amendment became effective.

Ministers have been asked to preach special sermons on Sunday, January 15, invoking observance of the dry laws and the support of the government in the enforcement of them. Pastors have been requested particularly to read President Coolidge's recent message to Congress on the subject of prohibition enforcement.

Church organizations and local committees are to be urged to "celebrate with vigor" on January 16 and "loyal people everywhere are requested to display the flag of the United States," the announcements states. According to league officials, the two-day celebration will be one of the "biggest reform demonstrations ever witnessed in the United States". They expect the hundreds of thousands of persons to take part, with a view of giving the country at large a "better general ideal of the earnestness of the dry forces".

Many Christmas Tourists On Roads

Motor Club Head Says Traffic Unusually Heavy In This District

Although the roads were very slippery, yet there was an unusual amount of traveling over the week-end, was the statement made this morning by Bernard N. Hanlon, manager of the New Castle Motor Club.

Mr. Hanlon went on to state that the traffic in many cases was mostly people going to or from their homes for the holidays, and that most of the journeys were short, rarely exceeding 100 miles.

"The coming of the motor car makes it comparatively easy for men and women to make these week-end jumps to their homes, even in the coldest weather, in a short time, and be certain that they will be back the following Monday or Tuesday, and besides this, to make the journey in a short time, having quite a while to visit. And, with many improvements in highways, jumps of longer and longer distances can be made with safety."

Train Hits Gas Truck, One Dead

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 28. — Heroically manning his post in an inferno of flames, Robert J. Ellis, 46, of Corliss, passenger engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad, died last night of burns received when his engine crashed into an Atlantic Refining company gasoline tank at the Meadowlands crossing late yesterday.

Cornelius H. Willard, 36, of Carnegie, the fireman, was seriously burned about the face and hands, and little hope is held for his recovery.

Lee T. Booker, 45, of 138 Oakland avenue, reported as the driver of the gasoline truck, escaped injury. He leaped from his seat when he saw that the collision was inevitable.

Colds That Develop Into Pneumonia

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the gratest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

COMPETITION

There is much talk about the value of co-operation in the world but there is no substitute for competition when it comes to getting somewhere. Chemists have discovered a new process of making ammonium phosphate for fertilizer. It will be possible to undersell a similar German product by $35 a ton. This is the right kind of competition, based on brainpower. This kind of competition helps farmers and what helps farmers helps us all. There is a malicious competition and there is the kind that is sound and constructive.

PAINLESS WARFARE

War of the future has been pictured as conflict that will be made terrible by new gases and all kinds of deadly chemicals. The fact is that such a war, if we have any, may be shorter in duration and less terrible and painful. Powerful anesthetics may put opposing armies out of business. The fighting spirit may be painlessly extracted by new methods.

FILLING SHOES

One of the most important things a man in high position can do is train somebody to take his place. Every man who has a job owes loyalty to the concern with which he is associated and from which he gets his living. That loyalty should urge him to train a successor to himself. Loyalty should extend beyond the service of the hour. Loyalty should seek to make a continuing contribution to the institution of which we are a part.

WEAR AND TEAR OF LIFE

A bronze tablet on a Detroit house reveals the fact that here Charles Lindbergh, greatest hero of this generation, was born. Looking at the house today one finds that a sign, "Rooms, Also Light Housekeeping," obscures the tablet. Business has no time for sentiment. In the wear and tear of affairs fame languishes. The question is: are the rewards of wear and tear worth the rush?

A STAKE IN LIFE

Employes of American corporations own or are making payments on more than a billion dollars worth of securities of the concerns for which they work. They are earning and winning a stake in America. The standard of living rises. They become better citizens. To acquire ownership in something is a long step toward acquiring self respect. Get a stake in something that has real value—and you are on the way to being somebody.

Collector Held Up By Two Bandits

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 28.—J. R. Smith, collector for a credit clothing company, was held up and robbed of $50 today by two bandits after he stopped his automobile to make adjustments to the motor. The robbery occurred on the river road in the eastern section of the city.

HIS EXPLANATION

Walter, who was having trouble with subtraction, showed a problem which he had just finished to his father.

"Is this right, Daddy?"

"No, son, it's not right," dad replied. "I can't understand why you have so much trouble with subtraction," he continued. "When I was in school I did it without any trouble."

"I guess subtraction musta' been easy those days," son replied.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

These are pleasant afternoons on the streets. So many old friends back in town over the holidays, friends we haven't seen for years perhaps, and they must stop and reminisce about the old times.

Met Jimmy Carson on Washington street yesterday afternoon. Jimmy is now located in Seneca, Ill., and looks as prosperous as a motion picture star. And while Jimmy was standing there talking, Bill Eroe, Jr., came up.

Now Billy is still in New Castle but the presence of Jimmy Carson and Billy Eroe together at the same time was quite a coincidence. Back about 1908 these two half portions played end on the New Castle high school football team, and at the risk of starting an argument I'll say they were two of the best ends we ever had on the Red and Black.

They weren't very big, but how they could get down under a punt. And because of their lack of stature they could get through a line by crawling under a giant guard's arm, or through his legs.

Sammy Richards has finally given up basketball, that is, as a sport for him to indulge in. After many years as a star forward, Sammy is now a full fledged referee with a whistle and everything. His bookings for the season sound like the route list of a vaudeville act. He has been asked to referee from East Liverpool, O., to Oil City, Pa. And if he can referee as well as he could play a few years ago everything will be under control.

And while we are speaking of referees, the same thing goes for Davy Hoskins. Davy is also a referee now. And somehow or other it seems to me if I were a basketball player I would want men like that calling the decisions.

Just a few days more before the old resolutions will be taken out of mothballs, brushed off and made to do for another year. Standing with feet close together and hands upraised, several million men will solemnly pledge themselves to abstain from liquor, tobacco, wild women, late hours, cussing, playing the radio after midnight, or nagging the wife.

And in about a week from that time every one of the resolutions will look like a nice fresh egg which has been gently dropped from the top of a 20-story building.

You would think that around an editorial room of a newspaper boasting as large a staff as the News, that someone would have a fountain pen that wrote. Harry Bell has one of the very few fountain pens here, and Harry should paste on his pen that old warning seen on cough medicines, "shake well before using."

All you can say for silver dollars is that they made a loud noise in the collection plate.

A chair of aeronautics is to be established at the University of Cincinnati.
